Leading Democrats Are Assembling at Washington To Confer.

THEY MAP CUT A CAMAIGN FOR 1896 Their Purpose Is To Control the Next

National Campaign. GOLDBUGS PUT ON THE DEFENSIVE

The Convention at Washington Today Will Be of Representative Democrats.

Washington, August 13 .- (Special.)minent free silver leaders from all parts of the country are on their way here attend the free silver conference tomorrow. There has been no attempt to secure a large attendance and only a few leaders from each state will be present. Senator Harris, the stalwart old Tennessee veteran, is in command. The purpose of the conference is to organize the free silver sentiment of the democratic party for the battle royal against the goldbugs next year. Representative Cox, of Tennessee, was the first man to arrive to attend the onference. Julige Cox is a free coinage man of the most approved stamp and believes in it heart and soul.

"I do not know yet what scope the conference will take," said Judge Cox today, beyond the general proposition that it is to be held for the purpose of keeping the novement in behalf of free coinage within the democratic party. We do not want democrats to have to go into the third party in order to show their allegiance to ree silver and we think the democracy is the proper and legitimate sponsor of free silver coinage. Down in Tennessee we are for free coinage literally at 16 to 1, or there are sixteen free silver men to one gold man, although a different impression as to the condition in our state seems to have gone abroad from anti-silver sources. If a vote were taken in Tennessee today I do not know but that we might run the ratio up to twenty silver men to one gold

If Senator Harris and his colleagues succeed in forming a national committee, composed of democrats of importance, one from each state, the object of the committee tion in the interest of free coinage, a very serious state of affairs will be presented to the gold democrats and the administration leaders. The men who are at the head of this movement are prominent in the councils of the democratic party. Senators Harris, Jones and Turple are recognized as men of ability as well as influence.

This fact has given to the conference The projectors are confident this movement will result in ultimate benefit to the democracy. The first effect of the official formation of a free silver wing of the democratic party will be to bring back into the fold democracy those democrats Tho have seceded and gone to the populists, lured by their advocacy of the cause of free coinage of silver. It is said these dissenting rethren will now come trooping back and that when the fight for free silver is made in the next national convention, if they are fairly beaten, they will stand by the Senator Jones reached Washington this afternoon. Representative Neill, of Arkanis, came in during the day and Senator tomorrow. Representative-elect James A. Lockhart, of the sixth North Carolina district, is also here and Mr. W. M. Rubey, of Macon, Mo., arrived this afteron. Representative Fithian, of Illinois, is en route at the head of a delegation.

WHAT HINRICHSEN SAYS. The Bimetallists Will Elect the Next

President in His Opinion. Washington, August 13.-Representatives from almost every state will be present a the free coinage conference to be held in this city tomorrow. This conference is the outcome of the Memphis convention, at which time democratic representatives from all states were instructed to send delegates to a general conference in Washington. The delegates come as representativs of the 16 to 1 movement and are confident of success and will admit of no com-

The following delegates had arrived at a late hour tonight: Senators Harris of Tenlessee. Jones of Arkansas, and Turple of Indiana, who issued the call for the conference; Hon. N. N, Cox of Tennessee, Hon. James A. Lockhart, of Wadesboro, N. C; W. M. Rubey, of Macon, Ga.; Hon. Robert Neill, Batesville, Ark.; W. Hill, W. C. Humphrey and George W. Allen, St. Louis, Mo.; Joseph F. Johnston, Samuel Willjohn, John W. Tomlinson, H. W. Wilson, Birmingham, Ala.; Joseph Hodgson, Mobile, Ala.; Senator John W. Daniel and Peter J. Otey, Lynchburg, Va. liam E. Wilson, Decatur, and J. W. Yantes and M. McNeely, Shelbyville. It is probable that Senator Harris will preside over the meeting and Casey Young, of Memphis, who is chairman of the exec utive committee, will have much to say in the proceedings. The object of the conferce is to form an organization within the mocratic party favorable to free silver, and every effort will be made to secure harmony in the ranks.

Senator Harris is authority for the statement that a new national committee will be formed, composed of democrats of prom-inence, one drawn from each state, the object being to secure control of the next national democratic convention.

W. H. Hinrichsen arrived tonight from Illinois at the head of a large delegation, of which Congression.

Illinois at the head of a large delegation, of which Congressman Fithian is a member. Mr. Hinrichsen has the honor of having called the first free silver convention ever held. He dominated the action of the vention held at Springfield in June last and is confident that the west, as well as Illinois, is taking more kindly every day the free silver movement. Mr. Hinrich-

e west turn to William R. Morrison as e one available candidate who represents erling democracy as opposed to the gold-ag mugwumpery of the white house. While r. Morrison has thus far remained noncommittal on the silver question, yet we see assured by him that he has the interests of his party at heart. His party will point to him in unmistakable terms the necessity for free silver and urge upon him his leadership. As the silver movement originated in the west, so also must the party leader come from the west.

"It should be understood to be an extra democratic movement, entirely within the lines of the party. Every effort possible

This conference will present a resolution that I believe will be adopted in a majority of the conventions of the various states, so that when the next national democratic convention is held the delegates will vote almost unanimously for free silwill vote almost unanimously for free sil-

Senator Daniel was one of the late arrivals tonight. He said he was not aware what the dimensions or the personnel of the conference would be, but he expected about 200 delegates to be present. Such a number, he thought, would work with more consonance than a larger representation and the work on hand would be expedited sooner. He saw no reason why the meet-ing should last longer than one day. He had not come here to offer resolutions and did not know the nature of the ones that would be introduced by the leaders of the movement. It was his opinion, however, that good would come of the affair and that the country at large would applaud

SILVER CONVENTION IN N. C. Paper Circulated Having that Object in View. Raleigh, N. C., August 13 .- Today the following paper was circulated among democrats here for signatures: "Recognizing the importance of an expression of the people upon political quesions before the meeting of the national convention which declares and settles the politics of parties, and believing that the prosperity and happiness of the great body of the people depend upon the re-establishment of the unit of value which existed prior to 1873 and the remonetization of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, we recommend that all persons opposed to a single gold standard be called together for consultation at some early date." Among the signers are ex-State Chairman Ed Chambers Smith, James C. MacRae, William C. Stronach. The paper is being circufated by ex-State Chairman H. Spier Whitaker and its purport is to have a state silver convention.

TILLMAN AND BUTLER SPEAK. To a Large Crowd at Concord, N. C.

Senator Butler Interviewed. Charlotte, N. C., August 13.—Senator Ben Tillman, of South Carolina, and Marion Butler, of North Carolina, spoke to 3,000 people at Concord, N. C., today. They both made strong free silver speeches.
While not flatly coming out in favor of a new party, there was a strong squint that way in the speeches of both. They both advocated the getting together of silver men ident in 1896.

Senator Butler was asked, after the speaking, concerning the meeting of Senators Harris, Turple and Jones, of Arkansas, in [Washington tomorrow, for a silver confer-

"I understand that the men who are engiton have said that they will stay in the democratic party even if it nominates a goldbug for president. If this is true, then they are not honest free silver men, but on the other hand are the most valuable and effective agents of the goldbugs, for they can get silver men to vote the goldbug ticket that all the goldbug men in the country cannot persuade to do so."

"JUDGE" TOM GIBSON GOES. Minister Terrell Sends the Georgian to Saul's Old Home.

Washington, August 13 .- The state department is awaiting fuller particulars of the assault on the American school at Tarsus, Syria. Minister Terrell has informed the state department that he has sent Thomas R. Gibson, United States consul at Beyroot, to Tarsus to make inquiry into the incident and Minister Terrell's dispatches on the subject show that his action was taken several days before news of the assault was cabled to this country. Even before the fiews was generally known in Constantinople, the minister had made complaint to the porte and dispatched Mr. Gibson on his mission. In view of the action of the minister in not making a report on the matter until he had been telegraphed by the state department, it is believed here that the incident was not of a serious character.

DETAINED AT QUARANTINE. Yellow Fever Aboard.

Quarantine, S. I., August 13.-One of the twenty-five passengers who were detained at quarantine on arrival of the Ward line steamer Seneca, Monday morning, developed suspicious symptoms this afternoon, and Health Officer Doty decided to hold all the passengers until a positive diagnosis can be had. The symptoms point to yellow fever. The patient was at once taken to Swinburne island and isolated. He is under close observation. Dr. Doty said tonight that he had not the slighest fear of any contagion. The rule has been established that unless incoming Havana passengers present a certificate of acclimitization from Dr. Burgess, the United States medical inspector at Havana, they will be detained on arrival at quarantine until fully five days have elapsed from the time the steamer left Havana. If yellow fever developes it is almost certain to show itself in that time. Formerly it was the custom to detain the ship in quarantine and not allow the acclimated passengers to land, but in order to facilitate the discharge of vessels, Dr. Doty changed the practice, and now only retains only the untion from Dr. Burgess, the United States

Members of the Bond Syndicate Discover Some Sharp Practice.

THE PERPETRATORS TO BE PUNISHED

Arbuckle Bros, Coffee Importers, Withdraw $75,000 in Gold.

NEARLY TWICE AS MUCH REPLACED. But Since the Withdrawals Began the Syndicate Has Not Returned More Than Half Taken Out.

New York, August 13.-The government bond syndicate today added $1,346,700 to the gold reserve in the United States treasury. The deposit was made at the subtreasury in New York. It was mainly in checks issued by the assay office for gold bullion delivered to that institution. Some coin was furnished. The assay office checks were purchased by the syndicate from bullion dealers. The syncicate is to supply more gold. Arbuckle Bros., the well-known coffee importers, withdrew $750,000 in gold today for shipment to Europe. The withdrawal, it is stated, was made only after a meeting of the members of the bond syndicate this afternoon. As the story runs, the syndicate after a close investigation discovered that all the members were not adhering to their original contract in regard to gold shipments-that two well-known firms, instead of appearing in the matter themselves, used the house which has recently done the bulk of the shipping of the yellow metal. It has cen said for some little time that Crossman & Bro. were not forwarding gold in such large quantities to meet payments on the firm's account, but that its bills were sold against the gold for the profits accruing directly from such operations. Arbuckle Bros, are recognized as competitors of Crossman & Bro. and shared in the bond syndicate profits, whereas Crossman & Bro. were not in the deal. While the syndicate members would speak only in whispers, it s evident that they have discovered treach ery in their camp and have taken the initiatory steps to punish the offenders. When the inside facts are known, they are llable to cause considerable commotion in financial circles. Having made enormous profits through heir participation in the syndicate operaions, it was not believed for a moment that any of the foreign exchange houses would ship gold and thus hamper the Belmont-Morgan interests, which have been striving to keep the treasury gold reserve as high

PUT UP MORE GOLD. Bond Syndicate Deposited Over

Million Yesterday. Washington, August 13.-Evidence that the Belmont-Morgan bond syndicate intend to protect the gold reserve of the treasury against raids upon it for export to Europe was received at the treasury department by Acting Secretary Curtis at 4:15 o'clock his afternoon. A telegram from Acting Treasurer Muhleman reached hlm stating that J. P. Morgan & Co. had deposited $1,346,000 in gold coin in exchange for United States notes. district tonight. The Malster faction objected to the rulings of the cahirman and gold coin had been withdrawn from the subtreasury for export tomorrow. With their deposits since the gold exports have been resumed on a large scale reached a total of $3,346,000.

It is estimated here that with exchange at the high figure quoted-$4.90\\@$4.90\\-a net profit of $3,000 on each $1,000,000 gold exported is made by the shippers.

Treasury officials are much gratified at the action of the syndicate, as it is construed to mean that they will not permi the gold reserve to fall below $100,000,000. At the close of business today the reserve stood at $101,933,715.

MORGAN ON THE GOLD DRAIN. The Return of Bonds to This Country

Not Responsible. New York, August 13 -A Bar Harbor, Me. special says: "The recent exports of gold and the loss of more than $7,000,000 to the treasury reserve since August 1st, are not apparently causing any anxiety to the head of the bond syndicate, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who is cruising near here with a small party on his yacht Corsair.

"Mr. Morgan was asked yesterday whether it is true that the gold exports were caused in part by the return of bonds which the syndicate sold in Europe last spring. 'No,' he said emphatically, 'if is not.'

"'Do you think that any considerable amount of the bonds will come back soon Mr. Morgan? It is reported in New York in our market.'

'That's a pure guess. How can they know? asked Mr. Morgan vehemen "The bonds are widely distribu Europe. The holders won't get together It is not likely that any large number of investors will send their bonds back under the existing money conditions in Eu

BACK TO HABRIMAN. George Gaither Is Probably Safe in

Emory Gap, Tenn., August 14.-1 a. (Special.)-The negro, George Gaither, who was arrested at Atlanta yesterday, arrived her near midnight. The officers left Chattanooga at 7 o'clock tonight and came up on a freight. They avoided Harriman where a number of men were ready to attempt to take the prisoner away from the oilicers. Only two or three persons were around the station when the train reached here. No one was looking for the negro to come on this train and no one knew where the officers would get off with him, Gaither was considerably excited when he stepped off the train and realized that he was back near the scene of his crime for he knew that if his coming was expected, short work would be made of him The officers moved quickly and quietly. They did not tarry here but started off at once in the direction of Kingston, the county seat where the jail is. It is barely possible that Gaither will not be placed in jail but instead will be hid out until he can can be identified by Myrtle Rex, the little girl of whom he is accused of having criminally assaulted. If Gaither proves to be the guilty wretch, it will be a hard matter to save his life unless he is removed to a distant county.

The young couple were out driving when the horse shied in crossing a bridge and ran the buggy off. Mr. Swing jumped from the vehicle, but the young lady with the horse and buggy went overboard, falling several feet. The young man ran to the bank and swam to the rescue of Miss Gallimore. In the struggle and excitement she held him too heavily by the neck and he sank and was drowned. Just as she was sinking for the last time Mr. Robert Young came upon the scene with a bateau, and, seeing her long hair in the water, reached down and pulled her out and she was saved. The body of Mr. Swing was found and taken from the water about 10 o'clock at night. He was about twenty years old. The horse was drowned also,

Susiness Men in the Quaker City Are Finding Out that Space Is Getting Very Scarce.

Philadelphia, August Pa., 13.-Chairman mith, of the councils committee on the Atlanta exposition, came to Philadelphia to day from his summer home in Asbury Park expressly to attend to matters con nected with the city's exhibit in the south. Mayor Warwick today received several letters of inquiry from intending exhibitors and referred them all to the chairman. The important feature in this mat er now is the trip of the liberty bell.

Chairman Smith is positive that the bell will go. The mayor and others interested ment is that the courts will not grant the injunction, on the ground of lack of juris that the courts would not interfere in the of the courts. It is in the custody of the city, but not its property, because it belongs to the entire country, and as the councils have consented to allow the bell to be taken to Atlanta, and as proper ar rangements have been made for its safe ty I do not think the courts will interfere I do not see how they can, and I am post tive that the bell will be taken according to the original programme." The intending Philadelphia exhibitor find that space is growing very short at the exposition, and it is quite likely that many who would like to send exhibits will find it impossible. The manufacturing and trade displays are in charge of John W. Woodside and Editor Kendrick, of The Carpet Journal, and they are likely to call meeting of the exhibitors soon to complete all arrangements, to divide the available space and to make such accommoda tions for the late exhibitors as are possible under the circumstances. The mayor will receive any applications for space but they should properly go to Chairman Smith, who is hard at work to make the exhibit of this city an interesting one. He has every hope of success and is confiden that his exertions will be supported.

PENNSYLVANIA'S WOMEN. They Are Getting Their Part of th Work in Shape.

Harrisburg, Pa., August 13 .- (Special.)-The woman's auxiliary of the Pennsylvania state commission to the Atlanta exposition met here today and organized by the election of Miss Julia M. Varding, of Pittsburg, as president: Miss Mary S. Garrett, of Philadelphia, as secretary; and Miss E. Russell, of Philadelphia, as assistant sec retary. Mrs. D. H. Hastings, appointed by the general board of women managers to have charge of the women's programme on Pennsylvania day, was present by invitaappropriation of $8,000 a proportionate shar of the expense of erecting and furnishing the state building. An application will be made for 1,000 feet of space in the woman's building aside from the space already se aside for the exhibition of the deaf children, which will be conducted under the auspice of Miss Garrett from October 15th to November 15th. An appropriation was made for the exhibition of the Woman's Silk Cul ture Association of the state, an industry that has attained larger proportions in Pennsylvania than in any other state. One of the rare features of the Pennsyl vania woman's exhibit will be a collectio of historical relics which is being collected by the Daughters of the Revolution and the Colonial Dames. An appropriation has been made for packing and transporting this exhibit. At the conclusion of the meeting of the woman's auxiliary, the execu tive committee of the state commission me and approved the requisitions made by the women and passed a resolution to the effect that only actual traveling expenses for members of the commission will be paid on

Secretary Keenan, who has just returned from Atlanta, reported that he had secured 3,000 square feet of space for the state exhibits, which will be transported to and from the exposition by the Southern railway. He also announced that a contract for the state building had been let to John G. Coder, of Harrisburg, who erected the Pennsylvania and New York buildings at Chicago, Mr. Coder will assist in arrang ing the state exhibits. The cost of the building when completed and furnished will be about $8,000. The matter of furnish ing and decorating will be in the hands of a joint committee of the commission and woman's auxiliary. The executive commit tee will arrange a programme for Pennsylvania day, when the governor will probably be accompanied to Atlanta by a military escort of at least one company of the national guard. It is also reported that a crack cadet company will be sent from Pittsburg at private expense. Great preparations will be made for the thousands of Pennsylvan ians who will honor their day. One of the features will be a reception in the state building to all Pennsylvanians, to the officers of the exposition and to prominent citizens of Atlanta, with a display of fire works at the close. There will also be special programme in the woman's building inder the direction of Mrs. Governor Hast Lutherans Object to Hoisting "Old Glory" Over School Buildings. Chicago, August 13.-The German Luther ans of the northern district of Illinois be gan an important conference today at th town of Schamburg. in this decounty Especial interest attaches to their delibera-tions because of the general opposition which has been engendered among the Lutherans to the school flag law, passed by the last legislature, making the hoisting of the stars and stripes over all educationa institutions compulsory during certain hours of each school day. The law has already been denounced by the Lutherans in Milwaukee and judging by the sentimen among the members of the Illinois conference resolutions will not only be adopted denouncing the law as unconstitutional and an attempt of the state to interfere with the church, but all Lutheran teachers and ministers will probably refuse to obey the law and work for its repeal, as they did with the deceased Edwards law.

New Orleans, August 13.—For a week past it has been expected that the grand jury trouble as over and will go home with a nection with the deal by which the Traction company secured the city railway franchise. Henry Bier, the capitalist, who it appears was the stalking horse in the transaction, was convicted of perjury and almost dead with sorrow and mortification at his deplorable condition, made a full con-fession of what he knew about the matter The grand tury has been patiently inves-tigating the clews indicated in Bier's con-fession and today when the grand jury reported it was the rolling away of the curtain that had shrouded the mysterious parts of an intense drama. There were nine indictments presented against Maurice J. One indictment charges Hart with obtaining $100,000 by false and fraudulent representations to the Traction

On the return of the indictments a warrant for Hart's arrest was issued and exe-cuted. He was required to give bond in the sum of $3,000 in each case. This he had no difficulty in giving. The trial of the case promises to be one of the most noted

Washington, August 18.-The report of ndian Agent Teter, of the Fort Hall res ervation, upon the recent Bannock troublavas received at the Indian bureau today. It confirms the heretofore published ac-, counts of the killing of the Bannock In-In connection with the killing of these Indians an interesting report has been received by the secretary of the interior forwarded from the war department. It is from Captain J. T. Vanorsdale, of the Seventh United States cavalry, formerly acting agent of the Fort Hall reservation.

The report says in part: "Being short rationed and far from selfsupporting, the Bannocks hunt for the purpose of obtaining sustenance. By treaty they are granted this privilege. It would seem that the killing of these Indians un-der the circumstances was nothing more nor less than murder. Further, I believe that there is no wanton slaughter of game by these Indians, while it is a notorious fact that hundreds of the animals are killed by white men for nothing more than heads and horns. There are men in that country who make it a business to pilot hunting parties from the east and abroad, which not only slaughter elk, but capture and ship them out of the country. The killing of game by the Indians interferes with this business. The Indians can hardly be expected to submit to the killing of their people while engaged in an occupation which they think they have a right to follow, more quietly than white men, and failure by the government to take proper action is liable to result in serious loss of life and property." The report is dated at Fort Logan, Col., and bears the indorsement of Lieuten Colonel Henry E. Noyes, of the Second cavalry, commanding the post, who says he concurs heartily in what Captain Vanorsdale has said. It is also indorsed by Brigadier General Frank Wheaton, com-manding the department of the Colorado, who hopes that Captain Vanorsdale's rec ommendations will be favorably consid-

SUITS IN THE COURT.

Some Important Damage Cases Filed in Macon's City Court.

BIBB'S NEGROES GET UP A PETITION

They Ask Governor Atkinson to Treat Gus Fambles Just as He Does Mrs. Nobles.

Macon, Ga., August 13 .- (Special.)-The way suits are being filed on this, the return day for the September term of the city court of Macon, would indicate that Judge Ross's tribunal is steadily gaining popularity with the bar. The following are some of the most interesting suits that have been

Mrs. Mamle E. Gay wants $12,500 damages from the receiver of the Macon and Northern railroad for the death of her husband, W. A. Gay, who was a freight engineer on the Macon and Northen. On October 25, 1894, his engine plunged a distance of twenty-five feet through a burning trestle, near Godfrey, Morgan county, and he sustained injuries from which he died. He was thirtyfour years old at the time, and earning $100 per month. Mrs. Gay's attorneys are Bartlett & Ellis.

John Parson sues Gaboury & Noble, the sewer contractors, for $1,800 damage. Parson was at work in a ditch when the sides caved in, and he was buried under the falling earth. A bone in his left thigh was broken. He alleges that the sides of the ditch were not properly braced. Gustin, Guerry and Hall represent him. On January 8, 1895, the retail dry goods store of the George W. Greene Company was destroyed by fire. The company had four policies of $2,500 each in each of the four insurance companies, Westchester Fire Insurance Company, Liverpool and London and Globe, London Assurance Corporation, North British Mercantile Insurance. Immediately after the fire the adjusters came to paying $1,258, or a total of $5,032. After this payment was made Green & Co. discovered that an error of $208.95 in calculation had been made against them, and they asked the companies to pay this on the ground that in the original settlement the companies had agreed to make good any error. The companies declined to pay the error. Green & Co. say the companies acted in bad faith, and ask to be released from their part of the agreement to accept $5,032. They claim there was too great an allowance for depre-ciation of stock, and too high value placed on goods saved, and that the total amount of loss should be $7,500, of winch one-fourth of loss should be $1,500, or winch one-fourth is due by each of the companies, namely, $1,875, from which is to be deducted $1,253 already paid, leaving the balance still due by each company, $618.94, together with interest from January 14, 1895, at 7 per cent per annum. In Gus Fambles's Behalf.

To His Excellency, Governor W. Y. At-

ng for your careful considerkinson, Atlanta, Ga.—We, the colored citizens of Twiggs county, do respectfully submit the following for your careful consideration:

"In the first place we declare that we desire to be law-abiding citizens, and in favor of law under all circumstances; for, as we understand, law is justice.

"We present the reasons why we think, beg any pray that executive clemency should be extended to Gus Fambles, who added Mrs. Nobles to kill her husband.

"I. We condemn the crime in no unmeasured terms, and think all who are guilty should be punished.

"2. We beg for the commutation of Gus Fambles's sentence on the grounds of ignorance and illiteracy, and because he is a weak-minded negro, without any education, influence, friends or money.

"3. He, by supposed kindness from Mrs. Nobles, was finally brought completely under her influence, and she obtained perfect control over his will power, and he became mere pigmy in her hands.

"4. That Mrs. Nobles used this poor, unfortunate, weak-minded man as a tool in her hands to commit a murder that has caused every true heart in the state to ache.

"5. We see that a very large petition from the white ladles of Georgia has been presented to your excellency, asking that Mrs. Nobles's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment. On this we make no comment, but in the name of justice, we do say that if Mrs. Nobles does not hang, we feel that Gus Fambles, the lesser criminal, also should be spared the death penalty.

"6. We beg the colored women of Atlanta, and of every city in Georgia to join in the petition to the governor for the commutation of the sentence of Gus Fambles.

"7. This petition is late in being presented, but we thought it was no use to apply for executive clemency until we saw that much interest was being manifested in the case of Mrs. Nobles,"

Fuelson, of River Falls, Ala., in which he states that about eighteen months ago a young man who he believes was named Bass, of Macon, passed througa there on a bleycle and lost a watch between River Falls and Searight, on which was engraved, "From Papa to Alice." Mr. Fuelson says he has found the watch and it is in his possession.

Secretary Smith's Speech at Athens Did Not Check the Growth of the Bi-

Athens, Ga., August 13 .- (Special.)-There can no longer be any doubt as to the purpose of the administration to use every effort to convert Georgia to the doctrine of a single gold standard

A rumor was afloat here vesterday, and t was traced down sufficiently to warrant it being stated as a fact, that at an early date, in fact, within the next thirty days in every section of the state the goldbugs would make a concentrated movement to catch the people and bring them to an indorsement of the administration. In every district of Georgia the strongest goldbug orator to be found in that distric is to be put upon the stump, and it is proposed to make an active campaign for several weeks.

Small Industries.

Athens people are developing a great deal of faith in small industries and are putting their money in a number of small enterprises. Recently a pants factory was organized by Athens capital. It has found uself unable to fill its orders and has been compelled to increase its plant. A knit-ting mill was got up a few months since, known as the Athens knitting mill. It is running full time now, and can hardly sup-ply the demand for its product in Athens and this section. It will have to increase its plant, despite the fact that another knitting raill will start operation here this week. A bobbin mill, started a few months since, is doing a splendid business. An electric power plant and a thousand spindle cotton mill are two industries to be com-pleted before January 1st. If New England mills will not come south, the idea of people to start their own mills.

The Bimetallic League. The speech of Secretary Smith last night hade no converts to the gold standard, and the Clarke County Bimetallic League continues to receive new names to its list. Within the next week the league will bold a meeting and map out a regular pro-gramme of future action. It will be the gramme of future action, it will be the purpose of the league to urge an unceasing warfare on the gold standard and disseminate all the information necessary to explode the fallacious arguments of the goldbugs. Ex-Congressman Henry H. Carlton is president of the Clarke County Bi-

J. H. Hertz and George W. Duncan will be paid $50 per month each until January 1st, to prepare a tax digest for assessors in 1896 and also to ascertain the names of all liable for street tax.

Alderman Altmayer introduced a resolution that $1,000 arising from race lease privileges be appropriated by the city to help defray the expense of erecting a house at the Atlanta exposition in which to make an exhibit from Bibb county. He stated that it is desired to raise an additional $2,000 by popular subscriptions. Five citizens told him tonight they would contribute $25 each, Mayor Horn was granted indefinite leave of absence. Another Suit.

The Clarke County Building, Loan and Improvement Company is being sued for $10,000 by Mr. Asa J. Booth. This is a queer case, the like of which hardly ever before was seen in a court. The case in substance has been adjudicated five times already by the courts, and this makes the six the effort made by Mr. Booth on the same line. Every time previously he has lost his case, but he continues regularly to file it again and bring it up in court. The loan association has filed a bill in court praying an injunction against Mr. Booth to keep him from bothering with this case and incidentally to save the clerk of the court the trouble of filing the papers in each case every time they are presented. The case presents a curious state of affairs where a man brings one case six times in court, and the defendant finally becomes tired of answering and invokes the protection of the court, Newsy Notes. Another Suit.

Professor and Mrs. C. P. Willcox are spending a vacation at haywood White Sulphur, N. C.

The light committee of the city council makes its report to that body Saturday.

The public school exhibit for the exposition is about completed, and is an excellent one.

COMMITTED TO JAIL.

Sellars Has a Preliminary Trial for the Murder of Dixon.

Waycross, Ga., August 13 .- (Special.)-A preliminary hearing was given at Blackshear today in the case of Davis F. Sellars, charged with the murder of John Dixon. Trial Justices Griner and Riggins preside be tried at the fall term of Pierce superior him and the chances are in their favor. Sellars's lawyers will make a strong fight to save his neck. Since the hearing of the case the impression obtains that Sellars has a fighting chance to save his life. Sellars and the Dixon brothers were white farmers. They farmed on shares and quarreled about the division of the fodder. John Dixon interfered and went to Sellars's house to take away the fodder. Sellars says Dix-on cursed and abused him outrageously and tried to remove the fodder. He became greatly provoked and went into the house and got his gun with which he shot and killed Dixon. He fled to the Florida line and was captured a few days ago by Offi Whites and Blacks Fight.

Intense excitement prevailed at Waresbord

for awhile last night. Two negroes were walking along on the principal street and met a white lady and some little children. They walked roughly against the lady and she was thrown down. The children were likewise rudely treated. The lady was frightened and raised an alarm. A crowd soon came to where the trouble was. Young Jack Cribb and Alex Bullard, whites, pursued the negroes. The negroes had fled down the street and were still running when the white men caught up with them. The negroes were soon overpowered and the boys gave them some terrible blows. The negroes were bruised and scratched in the fight. After the boys had wearled of flogging the negroes they were chased out of town. Bloodshed seemed imminent throughout the fight but, as the negroes of-fered but little resistance to the attack of Cribb and Bullard, there was no cause for further trouble. further trouble.

NEW BALE AT ALBANY.

The Cotton's Opening Rapidly—Shoot-ing Match To Be Held. Albany, Ga., August 13.—(Special.)—Al-bany received its first installment of the new cotton crop today. One bale was grown by T. R. Stewart, of Lee county, and the other was raised by R. C. Win-chester, of the eastern portion of this county. It classed strictly good mid-county. It classed strictly good mid-dling and brought the top of the market. The warm weather is causing the crop to mature and open rapidly. Ten days will cause it to roll in. The rifle tournament to come off here on August 21st is attracting the attention of the military all over the state. Teams from twelve companies have already ac-cepted invitations and more are expected. A big walking match will take place here on August 15th. Twelve or fifteen con-testants from as many different counties have entered. The match will be a go-as-you-please six-hour contest, and the win-ner of the first prize will receive $25.

ROME'S RETURNS ARE SHORT. Heavy Falling Off in the Valuation of Property.

Rome, Ga., August 13.-(Special.)-The books of the tax receiver of Floyd county, Mr. R. L. Foster, have been completed and the returns made up.

The people, as well as the property returned, all belong right here in Floyd, and this cleaning up of names of people and amounts of property that were not actually assessed has tended to add to the slump of $286,868 in property values and 371 polls. Some districts have been changed and cut up and the sundries which figure so largely in last year's digest have been divided up and placed where they properly belong. Rome city property shows a decrease from $3,011,888 in 1894 to $2,871,930; in merchandise from $506,031 to $458,049, and live stock from $314,387 to $273,215. There is an increase of acreage of land returned from 283,438 acres to 295,294 acres, and in valua tion from $1,910,967 to $1,926,874.

The slump is a pretty big one for a coun ty of so many natural resources as this, and can only be accounted for on the score of the exceeding stringency of the times and the deprectation in the values of property in city and county. A Hot Political Race.

Within the last twenty-four hours one of the hottest political contests of the year has developed within the inner circles of the bar of Rome.

It is the contest for the city judgeship, the place being now filled by Judge G. W. C. Harris. When Judge W. L. Turnbull was elected judge of the superior court to fill the vacancy caused by the retirment of Judge W. M. Henry it left the city judgship vacant.

judgship vacant.

After waiting until the very last moment Governor Atkinson appointed G. W. C. Harris to the position to fill the unexpired term over the heads of half a dozen other applicants for the place.

His term will expire in October and ther comes the appointment of a judge to fill the full term. Friends of Colonel W. S. McHenry, a prominent member of the bar have got up a petition for his appointment and they have secured a long list of names of the leading members of the bar. In the meantime Judge Harris has not been idle. During his incumbency he has filled the position without consure, and he claims that he is entitled to reappoint Of the members of the legislature-Messrs. Wright, Fouche and Reese—Wright is outspoken for McHenry, and Reese is understood to be on the same side. Fouche is for Harris, and so the matter

Both candidates are marshaling their forces and bringing their several influences to bear to whip the fight. Judge Harris is a good worker and a fine politician and has a pretty strong pull, be ing in possession. Colonel McHenry is very much likeu by the bar and is a man to win friends anywhere. He is fully capa ble and would fill the place admirably. There are no charges to be brought against Judge Harris in his administration of the duties of the office. So the fight is man

Salty Charges Preferred. At a meeting of the council last night salty charges were preferred against City Sexton P. D. Roser, a confederate veteran and a man who has held the position for some time and has done much to improve the condition of the cemetery. The charges are drunkenness on several occasions on the streets, using profane and ulgar language in the cemetery, and other acts unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. It is charged that he visited the residence of Dr. R. T. McCall while intoxi cated and that he cursed Alderman Mo Caffrey and his family on two occasions, and that he has been seen drunk on the streets on several occasions. The charges were referred to the first meeting of the council in September for investigation, when the sexton will be put on trial before the council.

It is claimed by Sexton Roser and his friends that the charges are untrue, malicious and actuated by motives of revenge on account of a wrangle over the sale of a emetery lot. The affair is of long stand cemetery lot. The affair is of long stand-ing and once before he has been suspended on charges of using rough language at a funeral. He is a good man in his position and has done a great deal toward improv-ing the cemetery, and his friends will work hard to clear him of the charges.

Arrested in Anniston. Patrolman Copeland has just returned from Anniston, where he went to identify from Anniston, where he went to identify and bring back E. Briggs, the man who took orders for clothing here some fortnight ago and skipped out, leaving his valise with a couple of pressed bricks and a copy of The New York World in it at the Central hotel in lieu of the cash for a board bill. Briggs was apprehended in Anniston and there was no trouble in identifying him. In fact, he confessed the fact that he was the man, but he declined to come back with the officer.

Sheriff McConnell went down to Atlanta today to secure requisition papers for him and will send to Anniston for him tomorrow.

Briggs has several things to answer for in this city, where he claimed to hall from Atlanta, representing a Chicago pants factory. It is understood that he collected several small sums in advance on orders made for clothing.

made for clothing. The Commissioners' Muddle. The Commissioners' Muddle.

The commissioners of roads and revenues of Floyd county are still in a muddle. At the last meeting G. B. Holder, a farmer of Silver Creek, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of H. M. Clayton, in direct contradiction of the recommendation of the grand jury, which recommended a man from the city of Rome.

Rome.

This being done, Commissioner Glenn resigned his seat on the board, as he said he believed the city ought to be represented. The board was to have met foday to examine a new map of the county and pass judgment on it, but for some reason there was no meeting.

The New Bank.

The latest indications are that the new bank will be established as a state bank, without the privilege of issuing money, so as to avoid the 10 per cent tax. The views of the principal stockholders seem to be on that line, so that the money can be handled with greater accility and reach a class of patrons and customers who are debarred from the national banks because they cannot hypothecate their property in negotiating loans.

The stock is nearly all raised and the outlook is very flattering for the early organization of the bank, with a capital stock of $100,000, making three banks for Rome. The New Bank.

LINCOLN Reminiscences

The Humor, Keenness and Stern Integrity of His Heroic Character

. . . By Philip Atkinson. It was the evening of July 3d. The money in a liberal supply of fireworks, and retired early to be ready for the fun at dawn on the 4th. Clocks were a luxury in those days, which but few of the Illinois pioneers could afford, $40 being the usual price asked by the conscienceless clock peddlers for a common brass clock bought at the Connecticut factory for $4. But chickens were plenty, and chanticleer's lusty crow, announcing the coming day, was the usual signal for the early riser; and the excited boys, lying half awake, with ears alert, waited anx-

And put ting his hands to his mouth, he uttered a shr.ll "cock-a-doo-dle-doo." The cock over the way returned the call, and then came another, and yet another crow from neighboring roosts, till, in less than five min utes, came the answering response from every roost in the village.

The boys listened, rubbed their sleepy eyes, routed one another. "Hark! the cocks are crowing." 'It's morning." "Fourth of July!" "Hurrah!" 'In another five minutes every boy was up, dressed and out, and "bang," "bang," fire-crackers, torredees, toy, nistels, and toy. crackers, torpedoes, toy pistols and toy cannon were snapping and banging all over town; while Lincoln and his friends indulged in a hearty laugh at the boys'

utes, came the answering response from

The Lincoln-Douglas Campaign of '58 In the early part of August, 1858, Senator Douglas was given a grand reception on his return to Chicago, after the adjournment of congress. It was the hour of his greatest political triumph. His doctrine of "popular sovere.gnty" had been in dorsed by congress. He was the acknowledged leader of a great political party; his return to the senate for another term seemed assured, and his prospects as a candidate for the presidency were never brighter.

Military and civic organizations were out in full force to do him honor. Cannon were booming, bands playing, banners waving. I stood near the Tremont house, among the dense crowd which kned both sides of Lake street, and saw the "little giant," as he was popularly called, as he rode up to the hotel, standing up in his carriage, his short, stout figure, little more than four feet high, bowing obsequiously to the right and left, his appearance being greeted with the wildest demonstrations of applause. But Lincoln was hot on his frack, and the following evening came to Chicago and made the opening speech in that remark-

"Fellow Citizens-You gave Senator Douglas a magnificent reception last evening such a reception as the greatest European potentate might justly be proud of. What means this grand display; these booming cannon, waving banners and wild plaudits rending the air? It means postoffices, mar-shalships, consulates.

"I came into your city tonight unattended, and gripsack in hand, took my solitary ride from the depot to the botel. No boon ing cannon or shouting multitude greeted my arrival. Not so much as a fire company turned out to do me honor. Why? Simply because I control no public patronage, have no official gifts with which to reward my political friends. No one sees in this homely face a political cabbage garden with ripening heads for future pluck-something grander, nobler, better than the mere spoils of office. I come as the advo-cate of the rights of free soil for free men; as the defender of the sacred compact which this champion of so-called popular sovereignty has dared to trample under foot; aiding and abetting those who have broken down the barriers which guarded soil forever consecrated to freedom; and, under this false guise, opening wide the gates to the inroad of the blighting curse of human slavery into all our western territory; giv-ing the slaveholder the right to pollute this soil, sacred to freedom, by bringing into it his human goods and chattels."

It was my good fortune to be present as a spectator at Lincoln's ncinination for the presidency in Chicago in May, 1866, and I can supplement the oft told tale with a fe-

It will be remembered that the convention met in a temporary frame building, known as the "Wigwam," erected especially for the purpose, at the southeast corner of Lake and Market streets, which was subsequently used for mass meetings during the campaign and for war meetings and soldiers barracks during the war. This building was afterwards sold and occupied for commission stores till swept away in the great fire of 1871, when a substantial brick building was erected in its place, and not even a tablet now marks this historic spot.

William H. Seward was the leading candidate, and the special favorite of the william H. Seward was the leading candidate, and the special favorite of the salical anti-slavery republicans. Chase, Lincoln, Cameron and Bates were the other candidates. Horacs Greeley was present, and as Oregon had no native delegate, Greeley was chosen as its representative, and was subsequently humorously referred to by one of the speakers as "the gentleman from Oregon," much to the amusement of the audience.

Seward's friends had regarded his nomination as almost a certainty, and on the morning of the third day of the convention the New York delegation, in confident anticipation of his success, paraded the streets with a brass band and, in consequence, arrived late at the Wigwam, and found every seat occupied. On the previous evening I learned, to my surprise and disappointment, that Lincoln, who was regarded as one of the, most conservative of the candidates, was likely to be chosen; my informant, who, like myself, was a Seward man, giving as a reason, that whip." I also learned from another infor-mant, who was a Lincoln man, that the democrats were secretly working earnestly and spending money freely to secure the nomination of Seward, whose well-known radical views would make him a much easier candidate to defeat at the election than a conservative candidate like Lincoln. The next morning I entered the Wigwam just as the nominations were being made, and found standing room in the outskirts of the densely packed crowd. The New York delegation had found seats near the presiding officer, and when their chairman, Mr. Evarts, rose and nominated William H. Seward, the tremendous cheering which followed seemed to leave no doubt that he would be the choice of the convention. When Lincoln was nominated there came another mighty outburst of applause, second only to that which followed the nomi-nation of Seward. The first ballot showed a large plurality for Seward, with Lincoln next highest, at which the Lincoln cheering increased.

During the progress of the second ballot, as the scattering began to be concen-trated on the two leading candidates the sup-porters of each vied with each other in applause, till it was hard to tell which had the loudest yell. The result showed large gains for Lincoln, with Seward still in the lead.

During the third ballot the Lincoln vote steadily increased, and when it began to outnumber the Seward vote, the enthusiasm of the Lincoln men broke forth in the wildest cheers, while that of the Seward men was evidently on the wane. came a lull in the storm; pencils were busy all over house correcting tally sheets, whispered conferences were going on the different delegations, and it was evident that the crisis was a hand. Two hundred and thirty-three votes were necessary to a choice, and the tally sheets showed 180 votes for Seward and 235½ for Lincoln, thus giving him two and a half votes more than the required majority. Then came a thunder burst of applause, and the boom of a cannon from the roof, the preconcerted signal announcing Lincoln's triumph to his friends throughout the city. But during it all the New York delegation, which had steadily supported Seward with unwavering confidence, sat silent as statues. When order was restored their chairman arose, and in dignified tones said: "We had hoped that our distinguished fellow citizen. William H. Seward, would have been the choice of this convention, but as you have decreed otherwise, I now move that the nomination of Abraham Lin-coln be made unanimous." The motion The motion was carried by a thunc lowed by a mighty cheer which shook the building, in which the New York delega-tion now heartily joined. And thus the first act in the great emancipation drama was finished.

Receiving the News.

It is not possible for the present generation to realize the intense anxiety with which the result of the presidential election of 1880 was awaited throughout the entire country, especially by the radical antislavery people of the north. The issue of that election was of far more momentous importance than was the success of any candidate of any party. The question to be decided was whether slavery or freedom should rule this country. Whether this great and terrible wrong should be extended and perpetrajed, or circumscribed and finally extirpated. For, in Lincoln's own memorable words, it was not possible that the country should continue to exist one-half slavery and one-half free. The state of New York held the balance of power, as it has often done; its vote would turn the scale for slavery or freedom, and its decision was awaited with intense anxiety. I was then living in the suburbs of Chicago, on a street which terminated in a prominent country road; a lonely syot, where there were no street lamps, and few passengers after dark. In wellahle news was momentarily expected. About 8 o'clock in the evening we were startled by the booming of cunnon in the city. I rand down to the gate and called to the driver of a passing farm wagon: "What are those guns for?" And back through the darkness came the clear, ringing, trimington, triming

It will be remembered that the funeral train bearing Lincoln's body went by a circuitous route from Washington to train bearing Lineoin's body went by a circuitous route from Washington to Springfield, stopping in the principal cities to give the people an opportunity to take a last look at their beloved president. In Chicago an immense concourse assembled for this purpose. The procession, several miles in length, met the train at the southern limit of the city and passed down Michigan avenue, and thence to the courthouse; the pupils of the public schools, carrying little flags draped with crape, occupying a prominent place. We still have the flags bur children carried on this occasion.

The casket was placed on a catafalque in the corridor of the courthouse and the procession filed past it; but found it closed, much to the disappointment of every one, especially the school children; the body, after its long journey and frequent expositive not beling in condition to be seen. But notice was given that it would be shown on the following day. Meantime the embalmers restored it and the next day a procession many blocks in length was formed, at the rear of which my wife and I took our places, and moved along slowly for two hours before reaching the courthouse. The lofty corridor was heavily draped in black, entirely covering the walls and ceiling, and the casket, surrounded by a military guard of honor, composed of prominent officers, rested on a catafalque in the center; and funeral dirges from singers behind the drapery added to the deep sodemnity of the mournful seene.

The face of the dead was calm, peaceful and natural; the well-known features eposing as in a restful sleep. Methers he de ladies could hardly be restrained from lissing the dead lips. As we passed my wife

The evening shadows were falling at last of the long, sad procession filed past, and the casket was closed and borne away to its last resting place at Springfield.

ATLANTA, GA., August 14, 1895.

Possum and Tater and Monetary Secretary Smith is making a very huge bid for infallibility on the money question. Two years ago he was not only loudly in favor of the free coinage of silver, but in favor of issuing paper notes on 'possums and taters and other non-perishable products.

In order to shed this record, Secretary Smith now declares that when he made his now celebrated and notorious propositions he was as ignorant of the money question as an unborn babe. This is now his excuse for making such propositions as he did. He declares that he was as ignorant of the money question when he published his now notorious panacea for hard times as any colored man in the country. This is going very far, but Secretary Smith, in explaining his free silver scheme (he does not excuse his 'possum and tater policy) makes the interesting admission that he was totally and entirely ignorant of every branch and part of the money question.

And yet we are now told in the newspapers that Secretary Smith has lately delivered a learned lecture before the Commercial Club in Athens on "the question of money as a science." Think of that! Within two years, under the friendly and fruitful tuition of Mr. Cleveland, the 'possum-and-tater statesin of Georgia has developed into a past grand master of the fellows of the royal society of financiers, so that from complete and utter ignorance on the subfect two years ago, he is now able to deliver learned lectures on monetary

Thus far in the campaign it has been observed that Secretary Smith's mancial speeches are mere handy newspa per transcripts of those of Mr. Carlisle Can it be possible that Secretary Smith, by merely reading the hand-to-mouth remarks of Mr. Carlisle, has come to consider himself well enough equipped to deliver a learned lecture on mone:ary

Let us hope that he has a firmer foundation for his "science" than Mr. Carlisle's off-hand remarks. Mr. Carlisle was not engaged in any scientific disquisition. He was merely attempting to explain by a quibble almost too contemptible to describe why his speech in 1878 in favor of the remonetization of silver was not a speech in favor of the free coinage of either gold or silver. Mr. Carlisle proved this to his own satisfaction, but he did not and he cannot prove that he was not denouncing a crime then which Mr. Cleveland has compelled him to approve now.

The "science" of money, as set forth Secretary Carlisle and Professor Smith, consists in the act of substituting republican doctrines for those that the democratic party has advocated ever since the discovery that silver had been demonetized. As a professor of monetary science our Georgia 'possum-and-tater statesman takes the cake. And he deserves it!

How to Secure International Bimetallism. The letter which we print elsewhere from Sir Moreton Frewen the wellknown English bimetallist, sheds some much-needed light on the course and progress of the recent elections in Great Britain with respect to the bimetallist movement in Great Britain. He permits us to print in full the remarkable letter which the Right Honorable Shaw-Lefevre, in the agony of his unexpected defeat, addressed to Mr. John McLaren, an intelligent and a patriotic bimetallist. The tenor of the Right Honorable Shaw-Lefevre's letter shows that he occupies a niche in the politics of Great Britain as conspicuous as that which Morton, of Nebraska, occupies in American poli-

Nobody understands this better than British bimetallists themselves. But they hope and believe that prompt action on the part of the United States, in reopening the mints to the free coinage of silver, will immensely strengthen the cause of bimetallism in Great Britain and compel that country to remonetize the white metal. This is the only rational movement that the people of the United States can make toward international bimetallism. When they convince England and Europe that they intend to restore silver whether or no, we shall see all those countries that trade with the United States follow suit. They cannot help themselves. The alternative will be forced upon them-and especially upon England, which depends absolutely on our cotton and our breadstuffs for clothing and feeding its pauper labor.

When the United States moves Europe will move, and not before. We shall have international bimetallism when the American republic opens its mints to silver, and not before.

Our Famous Bull Fight. In a recent interview which has been widely published, President Collier, of the exposition, says: The performance will take place within an inclosure which no one can enter with-out the payment of an admission fee, and it will only be seen by those who care to pay for the privilege. The exhibition will be a histrionic one and harmless in itself, devoid of cruelty to man or beast, but showing in the most realistic way a great tragedy in which both men and animals This will be satisfactory to everybody except to the few who have made up their minds to kick under any circumstances. We regret to say that The Louisville Courier-Journal seems to belong to this latter class, for in its absurd comments on President Collier's statement we find the following:

This is certainly a novel Aefense. Acording to such logic all that is necessary to justify the most bestial or brutal per-formance it to put it in an inclosure and charge an admission fee-logic which is especially forcible when it is onsidered that the admission fee is the sole object of such exhibitions. As to the claim that the bull fight will be a "histrionic" affair, "devoid cruelty to man or beast." if that be true then the bull fight will be a fraud. The exposition management will deceive nobody by such sophistry as is put forth in the name of its president. If its propos ed bull fight is to be a genuine bull fight, it will be a piece of barbarism inexcusable in a civilized community; if it is to be a mere hippodrome, it will be a piece of chear humbuggery unworthy such an enterprise as the exposition, to which the whole af-fair is a discredit. The first proposition advanced here has nothing to support it, and we fail to see any sophistry in the honest explanation that the bull fight is a histrionic affair-a sham combat, a realistic pageant. This statement has been made public time and again so that nobody will be deceived. The visitors to the exposition will understand that, if they choose to pay the money, they can see a sham fight with padded bulls, horses and matadors, so carefully arranged that there will not be a drop of blood shed, and not even a bruise on man or beast. Wherein will this differ from a picture or a stage play representing a fight or a murder? If The Courier-Journal is on the right line, then it follows that there should be no tragedies played on the

If the argument of the cranky opponents of our sham bull fight holds good it smashes the drama and thousands of works of art. But this stupid row over the proposed picturesque and innocent pageant will only serve to advertise it and draw a hundred visitors where there would have been one without it.

A Case of Heterophemy.

Colonel John C. Whitner writes to The ion to correct a mistak appeared in the editorial columns a day or two ago. We had stated that James R. Barrick, the gifted writer and poet, supplied the place of Prentice on The Courier-Journal when Henry Watterson secured control of and consolidated the two Louisville papers.

"I have no doubt," says Colonel Whitner, that you had in your mind Captain John E. Hatcher, who was at one time a member of General Stewart's staff. but who on account of poor health had to get an indefinite leave of absence. He was one of the brightest of writers. keen, quick and full of humor."

We stand corrected. Colonel Whitner is right. It was Hatcher we had in mind, and not Barrick. We need make no excuse for this. It was heterophemy. pure and simple. John E. Hatcher took the place of Prentice on The Courier-Journal, and showed how engaging true and genuine humor could be made. Not at any time before or since have the columns of any American newspaper been graced by so much that was worthy of preservation set forth in so few words. As Hatcher's life neared it end, the lamp of his mind burned brighter, and he simply "laid in the shade." as we say in Georgia, everything that Prentice had written. We thank Major Whitner for the opportunity he gives us of paying tribute to a genius who has surpassed all that have followed him.

American Humor in the Cabinet.

There is a humorist in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet who refuses to disclose his identity. We have long known that Mr. Cleveland's cabinet was a conglomerate affair, with little to commend it except to curiosity seekers and people of an inquisitive turn of mind, but we doubt whether anybody ever suspected that it contained a humorist. Still less would we have believed that a humorist with such surroundings would desire to remain anonymous.

But so it is. The Brer Bones of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet-whoever he may be; the reader may name him and take him-has nominated J. Sterling Morton as the democratic candidate for president. Think of that! Morton, the caricature of everything that is democraticwho has suppressed the seed depart ment, but who continues to send out rancid dissertations on "sour milk"-the wrecker of the democratic party in Nebraska, and the veteran organizer of some of the most remarkable political capers before high heaven.

It is perhaps well that the practical joker in the cabinet who suggested Morton chooses to remain anonymous. Though his suggestion is in the nature of the wildest of wild jokes, that fact would not save him from the indignation of a democratic mob if his identity should become known. Let us sell out the country and its interests to British bankers; let the taxpayers be run deeper and deeper into debt by the operations of the single gold standard; let collapse and calamity come, but for heaven's sake never mention J. Sterling Morton as a candidate for president, even by way of a toke.

Some jokes are funny: some are sar astic, and some are merely ridiculous: the Morton joke is ghastly. It goes be youd the prescribed limits of American umor, and breaks into the bone yard. If Mr. Cleveland proposes to insist on a nomination for a third term by his goldbug admirers, well and good. That is omething to discuss. In that case we suppose J. Sterling Morton would be a candidate for another cabinet place. That would be admissible. We can imagine something like that. But it is impossible to imagine J. Sterling Morton a candidate for the democratic nomina tion for president even in his own mind

A New Stimulant.

Recent experiments in our army with the kola nut confirms the statements of many travelers and scientists who have studied the kola question in Africa and the West Indies, where this wonderful nut is generally used.

It is claimed that kola is more stimulating than coffee and has no bad after effects. The natives of Africa and the West Indies who chew it are in great demand as laborers, because they are always in splendid health, suffer no fatigue, and work long hours without any food. In those countries the cocoa chewer is always rejected for the kola chewer.

Kola contains more caffeine than coffee itself, a good deal of starch and no tannin. It instantly increases muscular strength and allays hunger and thirst. besides lessening perspiration in hot weather. The nut is now cultivated in large quantities in various parts of the world, and an American firm expects shortly to put it on the market in this country. When it makes its appearance t is predicted that tea and coffee will have to go. The recent army experiments in this country were made by Captain Charles E. Woodruff, at Port Sheridan, Ill.

The Nobles Case.

Few murder cases in Georgia have ver excited more widespread interes hah that of Mrs. Nobles.

Friday next is the day set for the hanging of the prisoner and Gus Famoles, the negro who was hired by her to till old man Nobles. It is quite likely that the woman will not be executed on the day appointed. Petitions to be presented to the governor asking him to commute her sentence to imprisonment for life are being signed by hundreds of people, and her attorneys are also zealusly at work to secure a new trial.

Those who ask mercy for Mrs. Nobles ase their action upon various grounds. It is alleged that she is very ignorant and weak-minded, and that she was badly treated by her husband. The statement is also made by an expert that her parents were insane and that she inherited insanity from them. Then, it is claimed that she has not had a fair chance, because the original attorney in the case declined to make a motion for a new trial, alleging that he believed her to be guilty and had no legal grounds to suggest for a new trial. Lastly, many persons do not want the prisoner hanged simply and solely because she is

If the governor has to decide the question he will find his position anyt but pleasant. If he should not commute the prisoner's sentence some people would always raise the cry that he allowed a woman to go to the gallows. just as they did when Governor Smith refused to interfere in behalf of Susan Eberhart who helped her paramour murder his wife so that she could take her place. But Governor Smith never cared the snap of his finger for all the clamor against him. If Governor Atkinson should spare the life of the woman, the negroes of the state would argue, as they are already arguing, that it is unjust to hang Gus Fambles. Why spare the principal and hang the agent? they ask. Why save the scheming plotter who caused the murder and show no mercy to the ignorant tool? It is an ugly mess, no matter how we look at it. Even if Mrs. Nobles is insane, how is it that so little attention is paid to Fambles, who is now acting like an insane man? Perhaps the negro is also a victim of hereditary or some other kind of lunacy.

Possibly Mrs. Nobles when in an insane mood exercised an irresistible influence over Fambles. It may be that she hypnotized him. Hypnotism is frequently pleaded for a defense in the ourts these days, and it is about time for the new fad to occupy the attention of the Georgia courts.

In the midst of all these confusing and conflicting pleas and arguments we find the old-fashioned people of Twiggs ounty, in mass meeting assembled, resolving that in their judgment the sentence of the court should be duly carried out. They know the Nobles family and Gus Fambles, and they know the circumstances of the case. They believe that when a woman unsexes herself and kills or causes her husband to be killed, making a negro her partner in The crime. she is more of a fiend than a woman. and that she deserves the severest penalty of the law. It will be seen that Governor Atkinson has an interesting and in some respects a difficult case before him. We believe that he will be guided by his clear head and his conscience, and that his action will be in no degree influenced by public clamor on either side. He will do his duty as he sees it.

Mr. Whitney more than insinuates that Mr. Cleveland has determined to be a candidate for a third term. In that case, what becomes of the J. Sterling Morton hand-painted boom?

Can it be that J. Sterling Morton has nominated himself?

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Lady Brassy, of London, no longer send out invitations when she gives a reception. She simply puts an advertisement in the accepted London social organ, assuming that only her friends will come, and that people would not be rude enough to call if they were not expected. Recent statistics, carefully gathered show that 11,000 men are engaged in the fruit business in New York. This immense army is of quite recent growth. Not so many years ago most of the fruit was of the nearby brand, augmented by occasional importations from Italy and Spain. Now two new fruit markets the weaters and two new fruit markets, the western and eastern, flourish, the latter controlling the foreign, West Indian and southern products. Last year's imports of fruits are computed at $12,000,000. The growth of the California fruit trade has been rapid, and its extent proves that the flavor thereof tickles the netropolitan palate. The retail market ha broadened greatly and the increase in the number of push carts and corner stands this season is noticeable, in spite of ef-forts on the part of ordinance enforcers to check the growth by keeping the stree merchant within legal limits. How many depend solely upon fruit for a livelihood would be hard to ascertain, but there are

Shaw-Lefevre's Letter to McLarea.

18 Bryanston Square, W., July 18, 1895—Dear Sir: I cannot withdraw the expression I used in my last letter as to the conduct of yourself and your friends towards me. I might perhaps have added as part of or in aggravation of the meanness of which I complained, that having been silent as to your intentions before the contest you should have written to me after it was over to boast that you had defeated me by your abstentions.

What I complain of is that fifty or sixty gentlemen who had on previous occasions supported me should have withdrawn their support and have kept me in the dark as to their intentions. Had I known of them I might have enlisted the support of others in my favour.

You have succeeded in securing the return of a man whose views on your pet subject are unknown and who has had the advantage of not declaring himself. If this does not amount to meanness I do not know the term in which it can be described. Yours faithfully,

We do not care whether the coinage of silver is limited or unlimited, so long as the mints are open to the coinage of both metals alike. Congress leself is the "limit" to the coinage of money. It can start the mints to running or stop them at its pleasure and there is no necessity for any other limit. "Well, and doin' well," replied H. W. J. Ham, the irrepressible humorist of The Georgia Cracker style to the many inquiries of his friends as he strode into the corridor of the Kimball house yesterday and swung himself by the weight of his gripsack up to the name. Ham is the originator of the word "snollygoster," which so tickled the fancy of the funny men on The New litical campaign of '92 and is famous having sprung such a definition of a man who has been running for office all his life without hope of getting one, or without sense to fill it if he should get it. The word's all right and so is Ham. There is perhaps no more effective stump-speaker in Georgia than is Ham, of the good old coun-ty of Hall. "I've just come by to tell you," remarked present, but if I ever hear of the old de-mocracy bein' assailed I'll take a hand in the frolic. This reminds one of the joke Ham used to tell in his political speeches around at the "deestrict meetin's," which ran as follows:

A spunky old fellow from the backwoods went to town to see a circus. He had seen everything in the big tent and passed into the snake show on the side. He was chewing tobacco and ruminating quietly on all he had seen, when a saucy young upstart at the door of the snake show poked a harmless serpent at him in fun to catch the allegation of the snextstors. The old man had tention of the spectators. The Case of Mrs. Nobles To Be Presented

Judge Smith Could Not Hear the Motion for a New Trial.

THE GOVERNOR THE ONLY HOPE NOW A Strong Presentation of the Case Will Be Made to the Governor Today. Will Mrs. Nobles Hang?

Mr. Marion Harris, attorney for Mrs. Nobles, arrived in the city last night at 8:05 o'clock and went to the Kimbail for the night.

Mr. Harris came direct from Hawkinsville, where, on yesterday morning, he appeared before Judge Smith. He went before Judge Smith to present an extraordinary motion for a new trial, or a motion to set aside the judgment in the case. Nothing was done in the case, as Judge Smith stated to the attorney that he had so jurisdiction in the premises. Attorney Harris left on the next train for Atlanta, arriving here last night. He conferred with Colonel Glenn at the Kimball and the plan of procedure in the case was

This morning at 10 o'clock Mr. Harris and Colonel Glenn will present the case to the governor. For the first time the matter will be formally laid before the chief executive. Attorney Harris brought with him a number of strong petitions asking clemency for Mrs. Nobles. These petitions are the ones that have been circulated by the ladies of Atlanta. It is expected that with all the facts which he has in his possession and the documents which he will present, Mr. Harris will make a strong showing before the governor. He will be assisted by Colonel Glenn. They will doubtless argue the

Mr. Harris is extremely sanguine of saving the neck of Mrs. Nobles. He feels absolutely certain that she will not hang Friday. Since he has been engaged in the case he has worked with untiring energy, night and day. He has studied the case, collected facts, searched out law and prepared argument, and is fully prepared to present the case of the old woman in its strongest light today.

Friday is the date fixed for the execution of Mrs. Nobles. No one believes that she will hang on that day. It is expected that the governor will either grant her a respite of thirty days or commute the sentence to life imprisonment. No one believes that at the present stage of the case she will be allowed to go to the gal-

All hope of securing a new trial for Mrs. Nobles in the short time allowed has about been abandoned, and the attorneys confine their efforts to save Mrs Nobles's life to the governor. They are confident of being able to impress Governor Atkinson with the justice of their cause. They will place great stress upon the insanity plea. tition has been put in circulation A petition has been put in circulation asking that the sentence of Gus Fambles, the negro, be commuted to life imprisonment. Unless the governor acts speedily in this case, the negro will die day after tomorrow. There is a sentiment which favors the exercise of mercy in behalf of negro if mercy is extended to Mrs.

It is said by many that if Mrs. Nobles is granted a commutation of sentence and the negro is hung it will be a reflection upon the state. There is a great variety of opinion upon this subject. The move-ment in favor of the negro Fambles will probably take more definite shape today.

Mr. Harris was not disposed to talk much f the case last night further than to state briefly the facts of his appearance before Judge Smith yesterday morning. He went to Hawkinsville with the purpose of presenting an extraordinary motion for a new trial, which is a motion not presented during a regular term of court, and the only motion that could have been made for a new trial under the circumstances; a motion to set aside the verdict in the case, or to present a bill of exceptions with a view of carrying the case to the supreme Judge Smith could listen to none of these ns for lack of jurisdiction. Finding that he could not get a hearing, Mr. Har-ris came at once to Atlanta. This was his original intention as he had an engage ment with the governor this morning to present the case to him.

THE LADIES FOR MRS. NOBLES. A Strong Sentiment Among Them in Favor of Saving Her Neck.

Several prominent ladies of this city were asked for their opinion of the case of Mrs. Nobles yesterday. As the ladies of Atlanta vere the first to start the movement of the petition, as well as the raising of a fund with which to pay the attorneys' fees, sentiment is, with a few exceptions, in favor of Mrs. Nobles.

They all agree that she should suffer for her crime if she was sane at the time it was committed, but that hanging is too barbarous for any woman, no matter what her crime is. Mrs. Loulie M. Gordon gave it as her opinion that Mrs. Nobles should be dealt with as lightly as the law allows. "She is not only ignorant," said Mrs. Gordon, "but from what I have heard she is insane and ought to be sent to the asylum."

Mrs. A. B. Steele said: "No woman should be hung, no matter how great her crime. I don't think there is any doubt her being insane, and if they are going to do anything with her, send her to going to do anything with her, send ner to the asylum and let her die there."

Mrs. W. A. Hemphill is one of the many sympathizers with the unfortunate woman, and says that sending her to the penitentiary is more than sufficient punishment.

Miss Leonora Beck, who is one of the most enthusiastic workers in behalf of Mrs. Nobles, says that if there ever was a ft. subject for the asylum, she thinks Mrs.

Nobles is one.
"It would be the disgrace of the state of Georgia to hang this woman," said Miss Beck. "The old woman is now at the age at which all of her relatives who were sent to the asylum were in the very worst stages of the mania, and it is not unnaturher to become violent and commit airs. Inman, one of the prominent ladies the woman's board of the exposition, tought it would be a stain on the records of Georgia to hang Mrs. Nobles.

Out of about twenty ladies not one thought Mrs. Nobles should be hanged, and it was the general opinion that she was crazy

The case has created more interest among the ladies than among the men. They first started the movement in the woman's favor, and are now collecting money with which to defray the expenses of another trial. If it had not been for their work, there is little doubt but that Mrs. Nobles would have been hung on Friday without would have been hung on Friday without an effort being made to save her life.

Believes Women Should Hang. Mrs. T. C. Swift, one of the best-known and most thoughtful ladies in Atlanta, takes an independent view of the question not a woman should hang. She says:

"We all know how strong the inherent love of life is in man, and that the fear love of life is in man, and that the fear of losing it is a powerful motive to action; therefore, it seems to me that this principle is one that should be taken into consideration. If there was a greater certainty of the enforcement of the death penalty for murder there would be less of reckless crime. So long as murderers are defended with such zeal, and lawyers are employed at such heavy costs to both defendployed at such heavy costs to both defend-ant and state to renew trials that confuse and mislead the public as to the guilt of criminals and thereby create a false senti-ment of humanity in their favor, there will always be the hope of escape in those who ment of humanity in their favor, there will always be the hope of escape in those who both plan and recklessly commit murder. It is true that every one accused should have the full benefit of a legal trial, but when this is had, according to law, before a jury of twelve men, properly selected—when all the facts in the case are brought before them, and they decide upon the guilt of the party and sentence is passed by a judge who has been sworn into office and is supposed to act fairly, the case should stand as irrevocably decided—no technicalities should alter it, nothing but the strong-est incontrovertible facts should have any weight. This appealing for executive clemency by petition is nearly always unwarranted, and based upon sentiment rather than a sense of justice and right. Nothing is so fickle as public favor, and a revlusion is easily created and crime is soon forgotten in sympathy for the condemned. The effect of such is demoralizing, and has a tendency to destroy the respect of the masses for the sacredness and inviolability of law. If a law is felt to be wrong or defective, the proper redress is to change it. If hanging is the penalty for murder then it should be enforced, whatever the sex of the criminal, as I cannot see how laws can be made to suit individual cases or classes, but I can see how laws to be just should have all classes represented, including women, in the framing of them. If mental deficiency and the hard environment of ignorance and poverty are to be pleaded in extenuation of the worst of all crimes, then, indeed, we will have a harvest to reap, as the unreasoning and depraved will accept it as ilcense. Better far seek after the causes that produce these hard lives and depraved natures and endeavor to have organized effort that will far seek after the causes that produce these hard lives and depraved natures and endeavor to have organized effort that will tend to the improvement of this class by bettering their hard conditions. Till this is done, I fear only evil will come of interfering with the strict and proper course of justice.

Mercy Cannot Be Classified. Mrs. Maria Jourdan Westmoreland, th

vell-known writer and missionary, takes the view that if Mrs. Nobles is saved, then the negro, Gus Fambles, should be saved also. She says that mercy can no more e classified than love.

'I have no maudlin sentiment about woman being hung, if duly tried and prover guilty and convicted under the laws of the

"I am greatly surprised by the cours pursued by the would-be women suf-fragists' in this Nobles case, as they seem to be loudest in their protestations against hanging one of their own sex, who seems to be only justly condemned to suffer the penalty of her crime. If women desire to usurp the place which God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to accord to man by making him the 'head of the woman,' why then, to be consistent, they must use the prerogative of men, not only in commonplace every-day affairs, but, if convicted of murder, they must be content to die like men for the privilege.

'In the holy word, at Genesis 9: 6, we read: 'Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed.' And at Revelations xiii: 10: 'He that killeth with the sword, must be killed with the sword.' So that God's law in regard to the shedding man's blood has never been revoked If the death sentence of Mrs. Nobles is commuted to life imprisonment, then a similar clemency must of necessity be extended to her accomplice, the poor, forlorn, forsaken, forgotten, and seemingly friend-less negro, Gus Fambles. If it would be a disgrace to the Empire State of the South to hang a woman it would be a double dis grace to hang her still more unfortunate and irresponsible accomplice. Further-more, if Mrs. Nobles, through the sentimentality of some, is to be defended and cave a new trial, I, for one, will undertake to raise funds and employ counsel to de-fend and ask for a new trial for the friend-less Gus Fambles. But upon what grounds? may be asked. Aye, there's the rub! Suramay be asked. Aye, there's the rub! Surely undue influence might be justly employed. Think of what a picture for unfairness Georgia would present to the world and what fresh impetus would be given to the enemies of the south as to her unparalleled barbarism, etc., if, in mistaken zeal, the putlic were called upon to witness such half-hearted mercy as would be perpetrated in this great commonwealth, in the so-called name of justice, Mrs. Nobles should go to prison for life and Gus Fambles should go to the scaffold for her crime! Clemency for one means elemency for both."

Mrs. McLendon's Views.

Writing of the cases of Mrs. Nobles and beri Mrs. M. L. McLendon says "In the present state of affairs wome must bear the burdens of taxation without representation, and the only place in which they can represent themselves in Georgia is in the prisons and on the scaffold. Mrs. Nobles will hang next Friday unless Governor Atkinson commutes her sentence to imprisonment or pardons her. She has always been classed politically with lunatics, criminals and idiots, and has raised twelve citizens of Georgia under this cloud, and has borne such hardships in field and home as Atlanta women would shudder to even contemplate. No doubt if we could look into her past life we would find that she endured all things with a patience that few of us could emulate, and at last crazed by injustice, suppression, unkindness and abuse, she thought patience had ceased to be a virtue, and the wrongs of years culminated in a consuming desire for revenge. Men who fill themselves with intoxicating liquor until they are said to be crazy, have killed their wives and have been pardoned, or their sentence commuted. This woman hired a negro to kill her husband, and that alone shows that she is insane. I remember hearing of a woman who made two negro men kill her husband and bury him in the furrows of a cotton field, but neither the woman nor the negroes were hanged. "Both were 'chattels' of the dead man, for it was 'before the war.' But now the negro man has no commercial value except at election time and can hang like the white man after being convicted 'by a jury of his peers.' Men are so afraid of the 'advancement of women' that every indication of their 'rising' is suppressed, even if the hangman's noose has to be called into requisition to do it.

"The frantic denumentation of some men and a few 'unwomenly women,' who cry for blood, blood, and will be satisfied with nothing less, is distressing to those who do not believe in capital punishment. Those who plead for the old woman's life are called 'sickly and mawkish sentimentalists' who have too much time on their hands which is used in concocting mischief. "'A deep and logical thinker' is reported in last Sunday's Constitution as having said: 'From the standpoint of sentiment I believe that she (Mrs. Nobles) should be spared her life; from the standpoint of sentiment is believe that she (Mrs. Nobles had violated, and from this showing it is imprisonment or pardons her. She has al-ways been classed politically with lunatics, criminals and idiots, and has raised twelve citizens of Georgia understand greater latitude is allowed men than to women.

"Christ pardoned the vilest criminal, and Governor Northen pardoned Alice White, a young girl from Chatham county, whom he declared to be "the vilest creature that lives." She had lost all 'virtue and gentlenass of woman' in the long confinement of the convict camp, yet she was pardoned by a man, and Christ no doubt looked down in pity on her ruined girlhood and touched the heart of the man in authority at that time. May He in pity for the ruined girlhood of Marie Barberi and the desolation of Elizabeth Nobles in her old age, touch the hearts of Governor Morton and Governor Atkinson, that they may temper justice with mercy by at least commuting the sentences of these women who were, perhaps, 'more sinned against than sinning.' M. L. McLENDON, "Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1856."

The Show Was a Success, and a Large Crowd Filled the Grand-Special Features of the Evening.

The firemen's benefit at the Grand last night was a success from the moment the curtain rolled up until the last grand piece of realism.

Financially the benefit was a greater success than had been expected. Every seat in the pit was reserved and the galleries were well filled. All boxes were taken and very foot of space in the vast house was occu-

When the curtain rose at 8:15 o'clock it revealed a scene striking and unique. The stage decorations were handsome. Ribbons of red, white and blue were intertwined with good effect and drawn to the rear of the stage, where they converged about the picture of Chief Joyner. The firemen were eated in tiers and below them were seated those who were to take part in the prelude. As interlocutor Mr. Walter Howard was good, and he handled the minstrel men Messrs. Joe H. Davis and Frank Pearson n a telling way.

As snappy end men both Mr. Davis and Mr. Pearson came out with honors, and when Davis gave his "Ah, There, Girls," song the galleries roared. The musical features were all of more than usual merit. The base solo of Mr. Julian Christian, "Out on the Deep Blue Sea, "The Boys of the Old Brigade," by Mr. Frank Pearson, "The Bowery Girl," by little Carrie Bohrman and "Marie Louise," by Mr. Percy Lynwood, were all hits. But for every verse of Colonel Milledge's "Bugle Call" there was a heavy encore. It was sung with fine feeling and expression by Mr. William Owens. The Apollo quartet added new laurels.

When the Dandy Copper Came Commissioner Branan is a genius, and his impersonation of the regular patrolman shows that he has practical knowledge of that department of the city of which he is at the head.

His jolly countenance was covered with a red beard of the color characteristic of the professional cop. The coat of a patrolman was buttoned close to his body and reached below the knees. The billie and the belt and the helmet were all there when the orchestra rang out on the lively air of "Mo-

With the swagger of the real officer the commissioner paced the stage to the stir-ring tune. His song caught the crowd. During the intermission between verses there came a taking scene of real life on Decatur street. Two crap shooters came to blows. The patrolman watched the dar-kies scrap and winked at the audience. They were fighting fiercely and the crowd of gamins and coons about the stage, or rather on Decatur street, yelled lustily. Then this dandy copper rushed into the strife. The crowd scattered like chaff and only a wretched looking newsboy remained in the clutches of the cop.

It was a heroic deed, and Patrolman Branan, or Moriarity, showed that he was made out of the right kind of stuff.

Fearing that the crowd would return to take the prisoner from him, he ran for the police signal box and "pulled in" without He inquired the name of his prisoner, and discovered that he had landed Brown Al-

"Brown Allen! Brown Allen" said this gay cop. "It seems to me I have heard that name before. It sounds rather familiar. Oh, yes, he was read out on the report book about a year ago. He's wanted for riding on a street car somewhere."

The Police Patrol on the Scene.

Then came the rattle of a gong and the The patrol wagon, with Officer Whatley driving, pulled up and the prisoner was taken into the police station. It was something new to many of those in the audience, this method of making an arrest, and they sent up a chorus of ap-plause when Mr. Branan left the stage. He was called back, and with Officers Tony Lynam and Frank Whitley, did another he Department Called Out. Just after the arrest of Brown Allen an alarm of fire was turned in from one of the central boxes. Suddenly the flames shot up and the large building blazed. It was perilous moment. The flames shot higher and higher and it looked as if the whole city was threatened when Chief Joyner flashed like a streak of red down the street followed close by the department.

Foreman Jake Emmel rushed up and called out to his men for the life-saving net: Already the fire had reached the third story. All at once there came a scream from the fourth story and a blanched face ap peared through the blinding smoke. It did not occur to any one that there were sleepers there and the people gazed on in terro at the awful scene.

ers there and the people gazed on in terror at the awful scene.

As soon as this was discovered by the firemen, they rushed into the building with undaunted bravery and fought their way like flends through the flames until they reached the window where the victim already half dead from the heat and smoke had taken refuge.

It was apparent to those who were near the building that the man at the window had already given up all hope. With the look of a Casibianica he gazed below, and was in the act of falling back when the strong arms of Chief Joyner caught him about the waist and in a moment had hurled far out into the street many feet below. The body of the victim turned several times in the air before it struck the life net. He escaped, however, without serious injuries.

Several others were discovered in the rear rooms of the house and were rescued in the same way.

It was a grand plece of realism and carried out with fine effect.

Much credit is due Mr. Lucien York, the young man who designed and arranged the programme last night. It was due to his tireless efforts that the firemen's benefit was the signal success it was.

He Is Sullen and Morose and Will Not The Petition for Damages Says That Jum bo Was Maliciously and Wilfully Slandered. Talk-Killed Her Because She Had Discarded Him.

John Carroll, the young white man who in a fit of jealousy and drunken rage fired two pistol balls into the breast of Maggie Donahue, is now confined in a cell at the county jail and is held on the charge of murder.

gie Donahue by That Name.

He was transferred from the cell at police station early yesterday afternoon, and will remain in jail until he is tried for the murder of the unfortunate woman. In jail yesterday he appeared morose and sullen, and had but little to say of the case. He was very nervous and walked back and forth through the corridors. He watched every one very closely and seemed as if anxious to evade the stare of the other prisoners.

Early yesterday morning an inquest was held over the remains of the dead woman, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict that the woman's death was due to the effect of two pistol shots fired from the hands of Carroll and that the deed was murder. Several witnesses testified before the coroner's jury, and all the evidence obtained pointed to the fact that the woman was shot without provocation, and that the deed was deliberate and coldblooded.

The shooting occurred in the room occu pled by the woman at No. 2301/2 Decatur street. The house in which the room is located bears a bad reputation and has been the home of a class of women who have given the police a good deal of trouble of late. The building is an old ramshackle affair and is dingy and fororn in appearance.

From the testimony that was given at from the testimony that was given at the coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon, it appears that the woman was at her home during the afternoon of Monday. At about 8 o'cleck at night it is said that Carroll arrived and went immediately to her room. For an hour or two the man and woman talked pleasantly. Carroll, according to his own statement, was drink-ing and he sang several songs and made merry with the woman. During the con versation it is said that he exhibited a pistol and threatened to take the life of a young man by the name of Will Milton. No attention was paid the remark, as it was thought that he was simply jesting. Just after 11 o'clock Carroll began quar reling with the woman, and together the two went out into the hall of the building, where the quarrel was renewed. Without one word of warning it is said that Car roll caught the woman by the hand, and holding her at arm's length, deliberately placed the muzzle of his revolver against er breast and pulled the trigger. Insane from sudden madness, he fired rapidly like a demon, until all the chambers of the weapon were emptied. Then fleeing from the sight of blood, he rushed down the rickety steps, threw the pistol on the floor and rushed out into the night.

Told to Captain Jennings. The woman fell into her mother's arms, and was carried to the bed. The shooting caused wild excitement, and a large crowd was present almost before the sounds of the steps of the fleeing murderer had ceased to be heard.

Captain Jennings, of the police force, was among the first to reach the scene of the shooting, and to him the dying woman made a statement. She was rapid sinking, but between gasps said:

"I was shot by John Carroll, who lives at 87 Garibaldi street." These were the only words spoken by the dying woman, and she slowly became unonscious and died in this condition.

The Donahue woman has lived here many years and was at one time well thought of. She was married mirteen years ago to John Donahue, but they separated last June. Since that time she has been in the Decatur street house, and has been intimate with young Carroll, most of the

The Capture of Carroll.

When the shooting was done Carroll immediately rushed from the building and escaped in the darkness. Where he went for the time being it cannot be said, but some time after midnight he entered the gate of his home at 87 Garibaldi street. In the shadows of the place were secreted Officers Kilpatrick and Wilson. as the young man entered the yard they arrested him and carried him to police headquarters. Yesterday afternoon he was transferred to the jail and is confined in the cell occupied by Chisholm. In his cell he was seen yesterday after noon, and it was evident that the young man was very deeply impressed with the enormity of his crime Carroll Won't Talk.

He was restless and would pace back and forth from the cell door to the corridor He was in a bad humor and was not in clined to cordially greet his visitors. "I don't care to talk about the case," h said, "and I haven't anything to say." When asked if he was drinki time that the deed was committed, he said that he was.

"The woman was drinking some, too, and was not drunk, but had had several drinks. Further than this he would not say.

A suit for $20,000 was filed yesterday by Jumbo Hunter through his attorneys, Jackson & Leftwitch, against Councilman T. C

Mayson. This suit filed yesterday is a volumino ocument and when it rolled out on Clerk Tanner's office desk yesterday afternoon it narrated the woes of the ex-warden and told in strong parlance of what he had suffered since the days when the attack was first aimed against him by Councilman

Mayson. The suit filed yesterday tells the tale of all the troubles that fell to Jumbo Hunter when the days of investigation were on. It begins by saying that he is a citizen of this county and has lived here for so many years and that he is a married man o pure, upright and exalted character. It says that he filled the position of city warden and did his work with unerring faithfulness. All of the duties attendant upon the office that he filled for so many years are outlined and the integrity of his character is spread over many sheets of oolscap.

This lengthy preface also tells of the charges that were brought against him and tells of the duties that led him to visit the

"Notwithstanding," the document states, "that the defendant knew all this stated in the preface he continued to charge him and on the 9th day of January, 1895, defendant did, well knowing his good character, seek to injure and harass and annoy him and bring him into public scandal and disgrace and deprive him of his good name and to cause it to be believed that your petitioner was by reason of gross im-morality and divers other acts of mal-feasance, extortion, oppression and dis-honesty unfit for office in that he said to

'The truth of the matter is, that Hunter should not only be fired from his job he holds, but should be made to leave At-lanta. He is beyond doubt a man of the greatest immorality and I have evidence to prove 4t."

This is one of the strong grounds upor which the suit filed by Mr. Hunter is based. Later on it quotes all the inter-views of Mr. Mayson, telling of the alleged visits of Jumbo to the house of Lou Smith and what the whole affair meant. Then the petition for damages relates what transpired at the trial of Jumbo when he was brought up and examined before the special committee.

The suit attributes the fact that Jumbe lost his case to the charges brought by Mr. Mayson. "Because of all these charges brought against petitioner," it states, "he lost his job, which amounted to $1,200 from all dues that came to him."
The petition closes by stating that humbled pride, the loss of his job, the public disgrace, the slanderous attack and the unceedings against him call for $20,000 This judgment he asks against Mr. T. C.

AGAINST THE WESTWOOD PARK CO

Years Ago. The Ontario Land Company, of Minnesota, filed suit for heavy damages yesterday against the Westwood Park Company on promissory notes given several years ago. The petition states that the park company was indebted to the Ontario Land Company $9,915.54 on a promissory note made in June

It states that the company is also indebted $16,666.66, principal and interest, on a note made May 9, 1892. The petition states also that on May 8, 1891, when the first note was given, the Ontario company made to the park company a bond for title to a large tract of land at Westwood park. The note was given, it is stated, in part payment for that time various tracts of land have been conveyed to different parties by the order of the park company.

In this petition the Ontario company prays for judgments on the amount of the notes. It also prays for judgment against, and special lien upon the land for which the balance of the purchase money is owing, NEARLY $1,000 RAISED. A Spirited Meeting of the Moody Committee Last Night. In the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association a very enthusiastic meeting of the Moody committee was held last night. In addition to the funds already raised and addition to the runos airready raised a subscription list aggregating $455 was reported from the Second Baptist church, and one amounting to $107 was reported from the Central Congregational church. Fair reports were made from the various other churches represented.

On motion of Mr. A. D. Adair it was decided to call upon all the churches to take up a collection for the Moody tabernacle next Sunday. A building it is thought can be erected for $12,000. The advisability of putting up a tent was discussed and referred to the building committee. Mr. A. B. Warner gave it as his opinion that one of the Christian En-deaver tents used in Boston last month could be secured. Sam Jones's tent was likewise suggested. If the weather is mild the tents will, no doubt, answer is mid-the tents will, no doubt, answer the pur-pose, but if a cold snap comes along it will play havoc with Mr. Moody's campaign. The idea of the tent, however, fails to hold good, as Mr. Moody does not approve of it. The plan to put up a good, cheap auditorium will, no doubt, be carried out, if the funds are raised.

In the meantime the collections will proceed, and a meeting of the Moody committee will be held next Tuesday evening.

MENINGITIS THE CAUSE OF HIS DEATH

Had a Family o: Fourteen Chil-dren-Story of His Death.

John Quarles, one of the Murray county whitecaps sentenced by Judge Newman a few months ago, died in the federal prison at Columbus, O., yesterday afternoon. By this bereavement fourteen children and a helpless widow are left upon the ender mercies of the public. Quaries died of meningetis. He was a emarkably stout, well built man and the news of his death will be read with surprise by all who were present at the trial and remember how well he looked at that time

He was sentenced by Judge Newman luring the spring of this year and had just commenced to serve out his term in the enitentiary. He was forty-five years old at the time of his death.

The story of the trial and the flerce, brutal assault upon the life of Henry Worley is still fresh in the public mind. Quarles was not in the crowd of moonshiners who slaughtered Worley in his cornfield, but was one of the gang who tried to hang the informer at Bloodtown. It will be renembered that Worley escaped from the noose after being suspended in the air several feet above the ground. Within a few hours he turned up in the neighborhood of his home, much to the surprise and dismay of the moonshiners. Some took him for an apparition, while others, not inclined to be superstitious, were ter ror sticken by the fear that Worley would report them to the officers of the law as members of the gang who had tried to

The reason alleged for the killing of Worley by the moonshiners was the cruel manner in which he treated his wife and mother, neither of whom made any effort to save his life. From the standpoint of revenue officers in regard to blockade dis tilleries. He had been a member of the gang at one time, but overcome with remorse or actuated by a feeling of revenge, he decided to expose the business of his former associates and to spy out their lurking places. From the perils of the courtroom he rushed, as it were, into the clutches of the whitecaps, and thus found a speedy exit from all the troubles incident to hu-

The details of this frightful tragedy awed the country from one end to the other. Every good citizen of north Georgia was alrined for the safety of fils household and strenuous tappeals were made from that section invoking the protection of the court.

The death of the moonshiner in prison, surrounded by his grim associates, adds a touch of pathos to the narrative already sketched and will call forth a heartfelt sigh from many who have felt no sympa-thy for the prisoner, but who realize the profound horror of dying in the midst of guilt and surrounded by the cheerless walls

Traders are bullish on Reading on the general principle that on a settlement of the coal trade this stock will be one of the first to boom. Some well-informed houses say Jersey Central will be the first, and these people are salling Peaking as that these people are selling Reading on that use. They think it has had all the advance it is entitled to in the face of the drastic reorganization impending. J. W. Davis & Co. were large sellers Monday.

We are told that the plan under which attravagant competition in manufacturing electric supplies will be stopped is very nearly perfected, and that it will be announced before long. The original negotiations between General Electric and the Westinghouse were never broken off, and both parties are understood to be closer to an arcement on these lines than they have been at any time.

an parties are understood to be closer to a streem and on these lines than they have sen at any time.

One of the largest operators who has sen right on the Grangers since Chicago, burlington and Quincy was at 75 defines a pediton as follows: Chicago, Burlington and Quincy has paid 5 and 4 per cept and Jears when it did not earn it. This soon as the searnings for next year of 7, 8, or 10 per cent, but does not necessarily situate that the dividend will be higher than the 4 per cent now being the search of the searc creased rate. It is fair to consider that it can sell up 10 or 20 points in the next six or eight months without difficulty.

Rock Island is in a different position. It is 11 points lower than Burlington and Quincy. The corn crop along its line is practically made, and another week will assure it beyond possible doubt. You buy today a stock paying 2 per cent. The company has not paid unearned dividends, and it has kept the road in the best possible condition out of the earnings. In addition this is financially the strongest of any of the Grangers with about $4,000,000 actual cash in its treasury and no debts. Rock cash in its treasury and no debts. Rock Island will have to increase its dividends, and it will be on a 4 per cent basis very soon. All things considered, this stock seems to present the best opportunity for bull speculation from all points of view, Most houses with Chicago connections by wire had selling orders in the Grangers Monday, and in almost every case the rea-sons for selling were alleged to be the poor quality of spring wheat, the reduction in condition during Law and in the case of quality of apring wheat, the reduction in condition during July, and in the case of Chicago, Burlington and Quincy the government condition of corn in Nebraska. These reasons did not coincide with the heavy Chicago selling of wheat, and the fact that all the authorities, government and otherwise make the total wheat over this otherwise, make the total wheat crop this year less than 400,000,000 bushels. A leading operator says: "If the market had been more active Monday there would have been more decline, because some of the leading bears were anxious to put out a fresh short line on the weakness in the grain markets. Any attempt, however, to put out a line Kinday would have resulted in making quotations too low for safety in selling any large line."

Short selling is influenced now by a be lief that all the best news is known, and prices of stocks are high enough to have discounted that condition. The public is absent as a buyer, which is just the kind of market to induce short sales. The short nterest last week was reduced very much on the expected favorable crop report, but it is a question if a large short line can be put out except by slow and small selling. The best posted people on Distilling and Cattle Feeding are confident that this week will see the company out of all legal difficulties and reorganization under way. Allowing that the new bonds will sell at 80 and preferred stock at 40, the new common stock will sell at 11%-a price where the temptation to advance it would be almost irresistible in view of the way it is held. The Distilling Company always made money in spite of the way it was robbed, and even made a profit last year under the most adverse circumstances. Moreover, the property was solvent when Greenhut secured the receivership. Under the reorganization the company only buys such plants as it cares to operate and can operate most advantageously.

1147 3899 488 4893 The following are the closing quotations of future cottonin New Orleans today:

The Sun's Cotton Review New York, August 13.—Cotton declined 10 points, then rallied slightly and closed steady at a decline for the day of 8 to 10 points. Liverpool advanced 4½ to 5 points, but reacted and closed feverish steady at a decline for the day of 8 to 10 points. Liverpool advanced 4½ to 5 points, but reacted and closed feverish at a net advance of 1½ to 2 points with spot sales of 12,000 bales at firm and unohanged prices. Five bales of new cotton arrived at LaGringe. New Orleans advanced 2 to 3 points, but lost this and declined 7 to 8 points. Port receipts 232, against 207 this day last week and 243 last year. Spot cotton here was steady und unchanged with sales of 242 for spinning. Houston received 155, against 42 this day last week and 712 last year. Southern spot markets were generally quiet, but firm. Liverpool closed feversh. Some contron goods advanced ½c today. The aggregate amount of dividends declared for the quarter just ended by the Fall River mills was $53,245. These disbursements are made on an entire capital investment of $21,008,000, the average return being 2.54 per cent.

Today's Features—The decline today was not at all surprising and the decline was not great under the circumstances. Liverpool behaved handsomely in the main and there was considerable buying both for Liverpool and continental account, while the old bull clique in New Orleans, it is stated, was again buying, and there was also considerable covering of shorts by local operators. Rain fell in Texas, but it was mostly in the north and northwest where it is not wanted, and heavy rains fell in Alabama and Louisiana, where they seem likely to do more injury than good. The immediate cause of the decline today was a dispatch from New Orleans stating, apparently with authority, that the weekly government report tomorrow (Wednesday) will be more favorable than the last monthly report on August 10th, with the exception of some parts of Texas, where rain is undoubtedly needed; that is to say, in the southern and southwestern portions. Europe, New York and the south sold to realize profits and stop orders were caught on the way down. Sme of the crop news from Georgia and Alabama was favorable, but on the other hand, bad reports are being received

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, August 13.—(Special.)—The market during the forenoon today alternated between fits of strength and weakness. It was the old story of holders selling out to realize profits and then seeking to regain their holdings. In the last hour, however, the selling movement assumed larger proportions and caused a loss of fully 12 points from the highest of the day; but there were more buyers than sellers at the decline, and the close was at a slight recovery. October opened at 7.49, sold up to 7.41, declined to 7.23 and closed at 7.30@7.31 with the tone steady. The course of the market tomorrow will depend largely upon how much Liverpool shall give way in response to our reaction, but the condition and promise of the crop are certainly no better than on Monday; and no matter what Liverpool may do, we do not believe that prices will go materially lower. We rather expect that cotton will soon be higher than ever, and we favor buying on such reactions as that of today. New York, August 13 .- (Special.)-The Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, August 13.—Liverpool tele-graphed this morning spot quotations fully maintained with sales of 12,000 bales, midmaintained with sales of 12,000 bales, middling's 29-32d. Futures opened steady with buyers at 1-64 advance and closed at 2-64 advance from yesterday's final prices and feverish in tone; August-September 3 59-64d buyers against last year 3 49-64 to 3 59-64d last year. Manchester quotes yarns quiet but steady; cloths, more demand. Cables from Liverpool during the day showed that the official tone was correctly described. Several dispatches were sent to the exchange, each advising a fluctuation of one-half point. Our private advices say that spinners were large buyers in Liverpool, the market having declined in consequence of large orders from the continent to sell. The market here has shared and been influenced by the nervous feeling abroad. The opening was at about last night's prices. October sold on the call at 7.40, 7.39 and 7.38. But buying orders absorbed such cotton as was offered and prices were well i sustained. Liquidation of the considerable long interest with a covering also of short cotton has been the prices were well sustained. Liquidation of the considerable long interest with a covering also of short cotton has been the feature of the forenoon, but the market has shown no aggressive selling, although October under the offerings declined to 7.35 and January to 7.50. These prices found orders from New Orleans which speedily rallied prices and at midday the market is quiet with October 7.36 67.37. New Orleans telegrams say that the Indian Territory crop is very good with no rain wanted. North Texas also good. No rain in southwest Texas last night; clear and hot. A dispatch from Navasota reads: "Unprecedented demand for paris green; perfect panic on account of the army and boll worms; conservative planters say only 50 per cent of a crop on bottom lands and 25 per cent on hill lands." It was reported during the afternoon that the government bureau report tomorrow would be favorable, and show an improvement through every section of the cotton belt except Texas, and this rumor brought about a decline of 10 points from yesterday's closing prices. A further reaction is looked for by the trade who have sold freely during the past two days in anticipation of a break in prices. As a result of the weakness on this side it is expected that. freely during the past two days in anticipation of a break in prices. As a result of the weakness on this side it is expected that Liverpool will decline tomorrow 6-64d@8-64d. Unless rain falls throughout Texas this reaction is but a natural symptom of an advancing market. The sharp fluctuations sapis upoq uo specification in the past two days have brought about of the account.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

vering of Shorts and Reports of Hot Winds Helped Wheat and Corn. Winds Helped Wheat and Corn.

Chicago, August 13.—A recovery of a portion of yesterday's loss in wheat values was made today, not because the trade had been converted to a bullish view of the situation, but rather through persistent covering of previous sales by shorts. At the start and during a part of the first half hour it looked as though there would be a repetition of the declining movement, but gradual firmness came into the market, and as no decided attempt was made to drore prices lower, they appreciated steadily. September wheat opened from 65% to 65% c, advanced to 67c, closed at 66% 16%—101% c higher than yesterday. Cash wheat in the sample carload was firm and ic per bushel higher.

Corn displayed a recuperative tendency today. The Indiana state report was not so favorable as was expected, and reports of hot winds in other portions of the corn belt were in circulation. These items of information doubtless conveyed strength to prices, but the action of wheat shorts, who were covering their contracts, was a factor of greater importance. The market opened weak, but subsequently improved, and at the close a good recovery had been achieved. September corn opened 35% c, sold between 36 and 38% c, closing at 38c—1% c higher than yesterday. Cash corn was steady, prices averaging about the same as yesterday.

Oats—The course of prices in oats was tween 36 and 38¼c, closing at 38c-132 higher than yesterday. Cash corn was steady, prices averaging about the same as yesterday.

Oats—The course of prices in oats was identical with that of the other grains, whilst the range was not as great. Prices of oats per ton weight are now running about the same as those of hay, with, perhaps, some advantage in favor of the latter. This fact gives rise to gossip as to the probable consumptive demand for oats during the coming year. September oats closed ¾c higher than yesterday. Cash oats were ~c per bushel lower, but closed somewhat better.

Provisions—A generally lower market for provisions was noted. Hogs were again in a weak and demoralized condition and product took inspiration from that source. About the middle of the session, under some buying to cover shorts, there were slight upturns, but before the close prices were off again. A fair business was transacted. The close was 12½c lower than yesterday for September pork, 5c lower for September ribs.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.
Chicago, August 12.—The pressure to sell wheat this morning terminated shortly after the opening. There was further liquidation by some holders, but shorts were good buyers, which absorbed offerings and the price advanced a cent per bushel, the market remaining firm during the remainder of the session and recording a further advance during the last hour. News continues of most favorable kind for believers in higher prices. There has been a good clash business transacted again today and a fair demand reported at the seaboard for export. That Chicago is at present the cheapest market in which to buy wheat is plainly visible when we compare prices with those prevailing in other cities. We are over 5 cents per bushel below New York, about 4½ below Toledo and Detroit, and a cent under St. Louis. Toledo iespecially has taken advantage of this difference, buying here and shipping out to the country trade. The Minneapolis market records say that new spring wheat is not grading as well as expected, which caused considerable surprise among traders here and probably had its effect in the later strength. Clearances were the best for some time, aggregating about 1200000.

traders here and probably had its effect in the later strength. Clearances were the best for some time, aggregating about 120,000 bushels of wheat and flour. The close was firm.

Corn was very weak around the opening but strengthened almost immediately on crop bulletins from lowa and Indiana, which state that drought has done considerable injury. Later there was a further advance on the excellent cash and export business and buying by shorts. Notwithstanding the bearish situation that surrounds the corn market it is only natural to expect some reaction after the continued decline we have had.

Frovisions lacked support, and in conse-

Provisions lacked support, and in consequence were some easier than yesterday. Hog receipts were slightly over the estimate with prices at the yards lower.

This evening at Sweetwater Park hotel will occur the midweek hop, which is one of the delightful events of each week. The Fifth Regiment band will furnish the music and a large number of Atlantians will be present.

There is a bigger crowd than ever at Sweetwater Park this week, attracted thither doubtless by the glowing reports of friends who have spent weeks at that delightful resort. On Sunday morning the guests who were inclined took advantage of the kindness of the Rev. Dr. Thomas L. Peerd, of Pigmanschen, Ale. J. Beard, of Birmingham, Ala., and lis-tened to an interesting discourse upon the parable of the unjust steward taken from the gospel for the day. Mr. Herbert Wakefield presided at the plane and several of the ladies formed a choir to assist him. A sacred concert was given by the Fifth Regiment band soon after breakfast and was much enjoyed.

There will be another hop tonight and s large crowd is expected.

The hotel is fast filling up and it is calculated that there will not be a vacant room ere the opening of the Atlanta exposition takes place.

Among the latest arrivals are Dr. Charl-ton Shaw, Grady hospital, Atlanta; J. L. Renfro, Opelika; Mrs. Walker and child, Atlanta; Mrs. W. M. Jordan and Miss Mabel Jordan, C. H. Gregory, B. F. Berry, L. B. Jackson, W. T. Stalling and wife, Charles F. Rice, Spencer S. Marsh, Morton L. Adler, S. F. Weyman, Clarence E. Moore, Mrs. A. G. Moore, Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie and Miss Hart Wylle, R. O. Campbell and wife, Hon. Daniel W. Rountree, Mrs. W. M. Durham, all from Atlanta; J. C. Musgrove, Bipmingham; Mrs. A. M. Clark, Jacksonville, Fla.; A. R. Baron Russell, Boston, Mass.; Miss S. G. Work of the Kentucky Women.

Interesting information comes from Cov-ington and Newport concerning the colonial and art displays which will be made by the Kentucky women. The full board of women managers from Kentucky is compos-ed of Mrs. Mary Cecil Cantrell, Georgetown, Ky.; Mrs. Dashiell Stephenson, Cov-ington, Ky.; Mrs. C. D. Chenault, Richmond, Ky.; Mrs. V. S. Bolsseau, Franklin, Ky.; Mrs. Emma Walker Herr, Lexington, Ky .: Mrs. Frances Porter Dickey, Glasgow, Ky. Each of these ladies has been expected to awaken an interest in the mat-ter in her immediate section and to present such a collection of relies, etc., in that rtion of the colonial exhibit at Atlanta de by patriotic women as will be a proud boast to the people of the state.

There is at the present time no state in the union which is richer in what may be justly called "relics" than Kentucky. The character of the people, clannish as in Scotland; the pride of family and ancestry, strong and fervent; the real reverence attached to the possession of family belongings is strong indeed in the Blue Grass state. Through the length and breadth of that fair country can be found, in cabin and mansion, old things preserved and displayed with pride which in a less congenial atnew veneer and modern enamel.

of Mrs. Stephenson, who is in special charge of the work in the Covington and Newport section of the state, a correspondent writes: "Mrs. Stephenson was well fitted to take up the task of making a fitting display from Covington and New-port, not only from an extensive social acquaintance, but an appreciation of the fact that the display should have an artistic value and historical interest. The limited space allowed was, in her mind, to be given to the best: therefore, many things interest ing in themselves had to be considered as not eligible. Those pieces admitted will hereafter be doubly valuable from a historic standpoint, as exhibited in this collection and catalogued for future generations.

Prominent among her assistants are Miss Mary Florence Taney, of Covington, and Mrs. James M. Arnold, of Newport.

Among the articles to be shown in this

A portrait in oil of Colonel Thomas Hart, one of the proprietors of the Transylvania colony, who was awarded 20,000 acres of land by the Virginia legislature "for distinguisized service in helping to open up the wilderness." The hiarts were very wealthy people for those early times and of high social position in Virginia and North Carolina. Susanna Hart became the wife of Governor Isaac Saelby, Kentucky's first governor. It is said that Governor Shelby was the only ore of all the pioneers who retained uptil his death the lands which he pre-empted. "Traveier's Rest" still remains in possession of his descendants. Mrs. Stephenson has secured some paintings, done by Covington ladies, of which she feels very proud. These are from Miss Eudora Hereford, of Covington, Ky., who will send her "Tam O'Shanter." which is pronounced by connoisseurs one of the strongest conceptions extant. Miss Hereford is now in Paris. The pictures of this talented artist have had the distinction of being exhibited in the Paris salon.

Mrs. Hattle L. McKibben will exhibit her copy of Brozik's "Followers of John Huss."
The copy of this famous painting, made by Mrs. McKibben, is said to be one of the finest in the world. The original is valued at $8,000 or $10,000. In a simple country interior a Hussite preacher is explaining the gospel to a few followers of Huss, who have gathered there, notwithstanding the

The bright sunlight streams peacefully through a window just back of the gray-haired preacher, whose earn'ssiness is evident in every feature. In one face may be read frantic enthusiasm, in others calm and resolved courage, conviction, dread of surprise, and every attitude attending such a scene. Mrs. McKibben will also send some fine tapestry portieres representing Biblical scenes.

One of Mrs. Stephenson's most enterprising thoughts has been the publication, for the exposition, of a leaflet, "Unpublished Poems of Kentucky Women." It is to be got up in the very daintiest fashion, the title page designed by Mrs. Clemmie Roberts. It will be sold as a souvenir. With one exception, the poems will be by Covington and Newport women, and the leaflet will contain a dozen poems. The rontents will be: "A Song of the Violet," by M. C. R.; the state song, "Kentucky," by Mary Florence Taney; "In Springtime," by Mrs. Mary E. Light; "Our Lost Ginevras," by Mrs. Alice Winston: in addition, poems are being prepared by Mrs. Sallie Roulstone, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Laura Breckinridge Porter, Mrs. Kate Trimble Wooley and others. On the last page will appear "The Song of the Blue Grass," contributed by Mrs. Alice Williams Brotherton. Each poem will be illustrafed by some design, and the idea is sure to be a brilliant success.

Some Rave Laces.

A woman always loves to read of laces. It is one fad which even the bicycle and bloomer craze hasn't been able to eradicate, for it seems to be essential to femi-ninity. In a quaint little brochure sent out, I believe, for advertising purposes by a New York firm, which for that reason is unmentionable here, I find interesting facts about some collections of laces: The late Mrs. John Jacob Astor had a life-long fad for collecting laces. She left $80,000 worth to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The foundation of this collection was gathered in France and Italy by Mrs. Astor herself, between the years 1845 and 1855. It was the especial fascination of her whole life to hunt here and there in ob-scure stores and bric-a-brac shops on the continent for specimens of the finest lace work every known to have been manufact-ured. She could never resist buying when satisfied that it was the real thing. Mrs. Astor's fichus and lace handkerchiefs be Astor's inchus and lace handkerchiets be-came famous. She had a wonderful dress of lace, for which she paid $20,000. In this respect, however, she was outdone by her daughter, whose new $28,000 dress is gen-erally considered the creme de la creme erally considered about Newport.

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs has many thousands of dollars invested in the costly material. She is one of those who has ex-tensively increased her collection this past year. The dress Mrs. Oelrichs was married in was of the finest and rarest married in was of the lines, and ancient style that the manufacture of it has long the become a lost art. It cost $10,000, but its like could not be purchased now for $50,000. Miss Virginia Fair, her bright, win-some sister, who seems to be the reigning belle of Newport, is also quite as rich in Another treasure of the Stewart collection is an almost exact copy of a bedspread of Alencon point lace, with pillow shams made by special command of Napoleon I, on the occasion of his marriage with the Princess Marie Louise. For this copy Mr. Stewart paid $45,000. As seen today it has the same zephyr-like, fine hexagonal ground, profusely studded with medallions and lilies. Mrs. Stewart's laces cost in all about a quarter of a million dollars. The curtains hung at the windows of her big, gloomy mansion cost $500 apiece. The colection has since doubled its value, the present owner possessing all of a half-millior-dollar fortune in real rare laces.

It is for the purpose of taking into consideration the confederate display to be made under the auspices of the organization. This commendable effort was undertaken several days ago and the members of the Atlanta chapter have been very much encouraged at the earnestness with which their associates have gone to work to make a creditable exhibit of interesting relics of the confederacy. Liberal space for the display has already been secured and now that this has been settled the work of organization and installation will proceed under the direction of the association, whose president is Mrs. Helen Plane and of which Mrs. E. An Open Session of the Free Kindergarten

In the schoolroom of the Barclay mission Monday afternoon a beautiful sight was witnessed by the mothers of the Mt-

Neatly dressed for the occasion the little tots enjoyed the exhibition as much as the spectators. It was the first session of the kindergarten devoted exclusively to the parents of the young people. The

Mrs. Cutten, the teacher of the kindergarten, took charge of the young people, and for nearly an hour kept them busy displaying the many accomplishments which they had gained since the school opened. The parents of the little folks were very deeply impressed by their rapid progress since the school opened and by the work of the kindergarten generally. They congratulated Mrs. Cutten on the success of her work and assured her of their grateful coperation.

The plan of the kindergarten is one of Eiseman & Weil nstruction, and every incident of the day, however trivial, is made to contribute to this end. Even the games and amusements enjoyed by the children partake of this design. For example, the children are group-Men's and Boys' Outfitters, ed together in a circle for the purpose of playing one of the kindergarten games. If the game is that of leap frog the story of frogs and how they are made is first developed. This gives the children a defin-ite insight into frog life. The exercises which follow this story bring into play nearly all the muscles of the body, making the discipline one of physical as well as HINTS FOR THE SICK.

After the exercises were figished the little folks were treated to a dainty repast. Nearly all the germs of character, it is claimed, are planted before the child reaches the age of seven years, and the importance of such an institution is thus made readily apparent.

The open session of the kindergarten yesterday afternoon marks the close of the first term, if the brief experimental chapter of kindergarten work inaugurated in Atlanta by Mrs. Cutten may be so called. In a few days Mrs. Cutten will leave the city on a short vacation. She has organized eight kindergartens since the list of January, and is greatly in need of rest and recreation.

THE BEST NONE TOO GOOD ARRIVE. | DEPART. CENTRAL RAULROAD OF GEORGIA. Cheap Doctors and Patent Medicines Kill More People Than the Most Successful Practitioners Cure. The great question with sick folks is—what doctor to go to? It is, indeed, the vital and chief question. The true physician, with his science, his instruments and his remedies, is as a minister of humanity and kindness, while the false physician may be more dangerous to his patient than the disease he pretends to treat. But it would seems nowadays as though there were no calling in life where there is so much of sham and humbug, of smooth roguery and heartless imposition, as in that of medicine. A sleeping car on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway came perilously near being transformed into a morgue night before last before it reached Chattanooga.

In the sleeper were the members of the Nashville and the Atlanta baseball teams, and Mr. William Cherry, the sporting editor of The Nashville American, and it was among some of the members of the two teams and Mr. Cherry death was seeking victim as the train rolled up and down the mountains between the two Tennessee cities. It was all over Umpire Clark's

When the Atlantas went to Nashville to play the games scheduled to that city for Knowles, Clark was found there as the umpire. Clark has been with the league as an umpire longer than any man who is now judging balls and strikes, and though he has been seen in Atlanta he has never made himself a favorite here any more than he has in any other city in the association. But so far no one member of the association has found the nerve to protest against Clark's wark, and the failure of the protest is due wholly to the fact that his work has been of such a character that any one knowing the rules of the game could not

When the Atlantas opened in Nashville last Friday The American came out declaring that the team should not and could not lose a game to the Atlantas. That afternoon the Nashvilles won the game, and as Manager Knowles now says, dld so squarely and fairly. Clark's work was of the highest and best character, and the next morning, Saturday, The American came out with a story declaring that the home team should win all three of the games. The story asserted that it was the duty of the rooters, who were out to see that everything was done to make the home team win. It declared that the visitors had no right to win a game, and that it was the duty of the spectators to see that the umpire gave everything to the home team. It even suggested that the be responsible for any defeat the Nash-villes might sustain.

This made the Nashville rooters wild. and in accordance with the advice in The American of that morning to swarm the field and call for the blood of Clark, the umpire. With the details of that disgrace-ful event, The Constitution readers are familiar, but many of them do not know that had it not have been for the Nashpolice, Clark would have been beaten, and, perhaps, killed by the great throng which floated from the bleachers and the grand stand. As it was, Clark was conducted from the grounds by a squad of police while the Atlanta team was accompanied to the hotel by another squad of officers under command of Chief Clack, The next morning The American jumped on Clark and vilified him terribly for his decision, and at the same time it went to Moran without gloves declaring that he had thrown the game to Atlanta intention-

When the two teams left Nashville for Atlanta Monday night, Mr. Cherry was along, and so was Mr. Clark, the umpire. Manager Knowles was given a berth in one sleeper, and so was Mr. Cherry, while the members of the two teams and Umpire Clark were quartered in another car. Mr Cherry had left his car and was in the car with the players, where the beer corks were being drawn and where quite a good time was being had by those who liked that sort of fun. Late in the night Manager Knowles left the car and went to his lerth, the same car in which Mr. Cherry had a

It seems that Umpire Clark is quite a It seems that Umpire Clark is quite a songmaker as well as a good umpire and that during the late hours of the evening he began a song, in which he gave a little touch to every one. Among others he made a line or two which touched Mr. Cherry. Just whether these lines pleased Mr. Cherry or not is not known, but as the umpire was singing them in response to an encore Mr. Cherry approached the umpire and, catching him by the collar, remarked: "I want to see you a minute."

"I want to see you a minute."
Umpire Clark did not respond to the Umpire Clark did not respond to tre-touch and Mr. Cherry did not release his grip. Quite a number of players were look-ing on and it seems that some of them sprehended trouble between the journalist and the umpire. Callahan, Atlanta's pitch-er; Myers, of the Nashville team, and one or two more sprang forward and a war of or two more sprang forward and a war of words began. In a second knives and pis-tols were in the air. Some of the cooler heads jumped in just then and Manager Stallings, who was in the car, was among the number. But Manager Stallings was unable to do anything even with his own players, and while the threats were yet ripe for blood, left the car and went to the standard the standard threats. seper where Manager Knowles was sleep-

Manager Knowles responded to the call and in a second was in the car and in less than a second had Stallings's men and his own in complete control. It was then that he advised Mr. Cherry to seek his own car, but Mr. Cherry replied that he was in the habit of going where he pleased and that he usually staid just as long as he pleased.

The players were hustled out and made to seek their berths by Manager Knowles, and then Mr. Cherry and the manager talked the matter over.

For once it seems that the members of the two teams were together. Nashville and Atlanta alike were sore over what had been said about Moran and Clark and they wanted to have it out with the writer who had the right to ventilate his opinions in the prier he was working for opinions in the raper he was working for.

Then Friel declared that he would not let any one interfere with the umpire and that he would hit the man who did. "If you'll get off this ground and away rcm your friends," replied Friel, "I'll break your neck."

Stallings heard the remarks distinctly and so did quite a number of people, and Stallings did not resent them.

"The truth is," said Manager Knowles last night, "if the people of Atlanta would turn out and root for the Atlanta team eam we wouldn't lose a game in a dozen They go out there to see that the home team wins, and I tell you the way they pull for their team is something new to me, as old as I am in the business. Two games, however, will be played this afternoon, and both will be played for one price of admission. The first game will be called at 2 o'clock and as soon as that game is over the second game of the day will be started. Manager Stallings thinks that he is entitled to one of the two games and will put up his best work to capture it He feels that his team should certainly have one game on the Atlanta grounds during the season and will put out his best crowd to win.

He will not put up Moran, that great south paw of his, unless he changes his mind before the hour for the game this afternoon. Manager, Stallings is slightly soron the youngster and so is The Nashville American. It is said by both Manager Stallings and The American that Moran deliberately threw the game last Saturday to Atlanta and that he went to work against the team. One of the party with

he team yesterday said:
"Moran has been anxious to get with the Atlantas all the season and for that reason he won't do his work against the Atlanta think that he is wanted in Atlanta, and that has spoiled him and he won't pitch the game he can put up when it comes truth is Moran is worth nothing to Nash-ville when it comes to playing against Atlanta. Why, he actually threw that game the Atlantas won in Nashville last Saturday. Of that there is not the slightest

Manager Knowles and every one who has heard the charge which has been made against Moran—even the members of the Nashville team—laugh when they hear it told. They all say that Moran put up one of the best games that he has ever pitched and declare that he would have won it had the Nashville team given Moran the support they usually give other pitchers. ATLANTA STILL GOOD STOOND and There Is Yet a Mighty Good Chance for First Place.

The Evansville team took the game yes-erday afternoon from the Mobiles. It was nothing like an interesting game to the Evansvilles up to the seventh inning, when that team piled up seven runs and took the game away from the Mobiles, who had it well in hand at that time. Evansville's win places that team fur-ther in the lead than ever, but it does not shut off its chances to drop the pennant to Atlanta or even Nashville. It may be that Nashville will be able to pass the Atlantas on the Atlanta grounds this week, and in that event the race will be between Evansville and Nashville. But should the Atlantas take the series from Nashville there are more reasons than one why the Atlantas should win out.

New Orleans 3, Montgomery 1. Montgomery, Ala., August 13.—The game today was just a repetition of Monday's. Ford pitched a fine game, but the team did not support him. The work was very amateurish and at times yellow to a degree. Carl seemed to have them at his mercy, as they were unable to hit him at all.

It resulted in a dead heat between the favorite, Lord Hawkstone, and Austin, who was backed in a desultory fashion at fives. Lord Hawkstone looked all over a winner until he was joined a furlong from home by Austin. The pair had a driving finish home, and Austin showed a head in front at the sixteenth pole, but Overton put on an extra effort in his work on Lord Hawkstone and in the final jump landed him up with Austin, and the judges decided it a dead heat. Ryde, Isle of Wight, August 13.—The Royal Victoria Yacht Club had most disa-greeable weather for the opening today of its regatta, which will last four days. In the early morning there was a moderate southeast breeze but when the start was made it had shifted around to the southwest. Rain was falling heavily and the weather was so thick that the mark boats were invisible here. The course was from a mark boat off Ryde to and around the Nab lightship, thence to a mark boat off the Spit for the light, thence to a mark about off Cowes and back to Ryde, twice around, a distance of fifty miles. The match was for the queen's cup and was open to all yachts above 30 rating. The starters were Britannia, Alisa, Namara, Isolde and Carqss. A GREAT CORN YEAR.

The Crop Is the Largest One Ever Gathered in Georgia.

DISCOURAGING REPORTS FROM COTTON

The Backset to the Cotton Crop Is Due the Unequal Distribution of Rain. General Crop News.

If the present indications Hold good the corn crop this year will be the largest ever gathered in Georgia. This gratifying piece, of news, however, is offset by the condition of the cotton crop, which is not by any means as promising as the farmers had every reason to hope a few weeks ago. The cause of this discouraging report is due to the unequal distribution of rain. Last week the damage from this complaint alone amounted to quite a serious back-set. The rains during the past few days have not fallen in the right spots nor in proper quantities, but the damage reported from this sourace of complaint is not quite as serious as it was the week preceding. Peaches and watermelons, however, have ruled the day. The market has been overstocked with them and the crop is, perhaps, the largest ever known. The following is the bullefin for the

"The rainfall of the past week was again unevenly distributed, though not as much so as the preceding week. Complaint continues that corn in some localities is be ing injured by drought, but a great majorof our correspondents report that crop in fine condition, with prospects exceeding-ly bright for a yield that will surpass any previous corn crop raised in the state. The outlook for the cotton crop, while not dis couraging, is not altogether as favorable as last week, the plant having begun to shed its fruit in a number of counties and a little blight having also made its appearance. Minor crops are all doing well.

Northwest Section. "In the northwest section good showers have fallen during the past week in all the counties, except portions of Polk, Floyd and Gordon. They were most general on the 11th. In the dry localities enumerated the 11th. In the dry localities enumerated corn is suffering, cotton is poor, has stopped growing and is shedding. In the other counties early corn now assures a good crop, but another rain will be beneficial. More will be needed for late corn. Cotton is still improving, but hardly promises an average crop yet. Rye, barley and lurnip seed are being sown. Peaches and apples are ripe, and large quantities of these fruits are being dried. North Section.

North Section.

"In the northern section the past week has, as a whole, been favorable for crop growth and farm work. Corn is about made, and many reporters say that the crop will be unusually large and fine. Cotton is not improving as rapidly as it should. Some shedding is reported. Turnip planting is being delayed on account of drought in some localities, while in others this important work is being rapidly pushed. Fruit is a fine crop, but has nearly all been gathered. Weather has generally been too dry for gardens.

"In most counties of the northeast portion of the state the weather during the past week was very favorable for all crops. The days were warm, with showers almost every day. However, there are still some few unfavored localities which are badly in need of moisture, and the crops in the latter named places are drying up. Early corn is past any harm from drought, but more rain is needed by the late planted. Cotton is small and light fruited. The plant is still throwing off fruit and foliage in many fields, but the shedding is not spreading as rapidly as last week. Large quantities of fodder are being pulled. Peas, cane, potatoes and all other minor crops are in good condition. Northeast Section. are in good condition.

West Section.

West Section.

"Partial showers visited this section of the state during the past seven days, which were of incalculable benefit to all crops. However, more rain is still needed to insure good results. Upland corn was never better, while the lowland fields will give only an average yield. Cotton is only doing fairly well. The plant is small and shedding rapidly, and in some unfavored localities the crop will be almost an entire fallure. Fodder is being saved. Irish potato crop a is good one. The sweet potato crop also bids fair to be large. Field peas look promising. Sorghum was never better. All minor crops are in good condition.

Central Section.

"In the central section.
"In the central section temperature has been slightly above the normal. Good showers have fallen in all the counties except Blbb and Wilkinson. Corn is very good; a great many consider it the finest crop ever raised in the state. Fodder pulling is now under way. Cotton is doing well and promises an average crop, although there is still some complaint of the fruit shedding. Potatoes, cane and peas are doing well. Turnips are coming up. Hay is turning out well. The peach crop was not so good as expected, the fruit being small and wormy. Melons, which were very fine, are rotting in the field for want of a market. In Wilkinson and Bibb counties, the two in which no rain has fallen, the prospect for corn is below the average. Cotton is at a stand-still, and is dropping its fruit badly. Grass is drying up and fodder curing too fast.

Enst Section.

East Section. "Reports received from the correspondents of eastern Georgia show that the weather of the past week has been favorable for the growth of vegetation. Showers have been well scattered and there are but few localities needing rain. Corn is fine, about all made, promises to be the banner crop of the season. Fodder is ripening rapidly and farmers are already busy pulling it. Cotton has made but little advance during the week and some farmers complain of shedding and a little blight; the latter, however, is very slight. Many melons are rotting in the field and peaches are falling off the trees from rot.

Southwest Section. Southwest Section.

"While other sections have been suffering for the want of rain, the southwestern counties of the state have been having an excess, and some complaint is being made of too much rain. A large crop of corn is already safe, and most of the fodder has been saved, though it is of an inferior quality. Cotton is beginning to open. The plant has not improved any during the past week, and only about one-half a crop will be realized. Turnips and cabbage are being planted. All minor crops are in good condition. Fruit nearly all gone.

South Section. "All crops in the southern section of the state, except cotton, are in first-class condition. The seasons have been good, and farmers are almost through gathering foder. Cotton is shedding, and some blight has appeared in spots, and the outlook for cotton is not even as good as it was one week ago. Corn is made and the crop is a large one. Cane, rice, potatoes and all minor crops are thriving. Watermelons have hot, as yet, all been shipped from this section.

Southeast Section. "With showers well scattered over the different counties of the southeastern section the week has been a good one for crops. Corn is in excellent condition and gives promise of being a very large crop. Fodder pulling is well advanced and in some cases finished. Cotton is not improving rapidly, but generally shows no signs of deterioration. A little shedding is reported, but the staple is unsually free from lice, rust and worms. Minor crops are doing well."

Virginia Editors To Visit Atlanta. Richmond, Va., August 13.—The executive committee of the Virginia Press Association at a meeting held here today decided to go on an excursion to the Atlanta exposi-tion, leaving here October 10th. This association embraces representatives of nearly all the weekly and most of the daily papers in Virginia.

and it will be one of the hibits on the grounds.

Been Drawn.

THE ARRANGEMENTS WILL BE AMPLE

The Lower Floor of the Building Will Be Used as a Terminal and the Second Floor for a Cate and Promenade.

The Atlanta Consolidated Street railway is making vast arrangements to handle the exposition travel, and not only have various lines been extended, but excellent terminal arrangements are being made. The main terminal of the company will be located just at the right of the main entrance of the exposition grounds at the Wilson avenue entrance. The terminal facilities will be extensive and the passengers will be cared for in the best possible man-

The station will be a large two-story building, and will be almost circular in construction. The cars will enter the terminal and will be entirely under a shelter while the passengers are getting on and off. As soon as a car from the city rolls under the shed, the passengers will alight on a circular platform that will be on a level with the footboard of the car. Immediately in front of the passengers will be an entrance to the grounds. On either side of the entrance will be ticket windows where they will be required to purchase before they will be admitted into the ves-tibuled entrance. Then they will be admitted, after the tickets are taken up, and will pass through the turnstiles.

Just above this exit from the building and nearer the main entrance of the expo sition will be a large double gate of egress into the station that will be used by par-ties who desire to leave the grounds and board cars. "THERE IS NO MORAL DIFFERENCE,"

He Says, Between a Bull Fight With Pads and One Without Them-What

Rev. J. L. D. Hillyer refuses to carry out the instructions of the Baptist conferfight at the exposition and is not willing to write a letter stating that in his judgment the bull fight is all a joke.

At a meeting of the conference held last week an article which appeared in one of the Baptist publications was discussed. This article denouncing the bull fight in scath ing terms and proceeded to handle the mat-ter at some length.

It was the sense of the meeting that the bull fight was simply a huge joke, and on motion of Dr. Hawthorne, a resolution was adopted to this effect. Rev. J. L. D. Hillyer was appinted to communicate with the indignant editor and notify him of the action of the conference. At the last meeting of the conference, held on Monday morning last, Mr. Hillyer arose and stated that he had not written the let-ter and durthermore could not execute the instructions of the resolution. In speaking of the matter yesterday, Mr.

Hillyer said:
"The action of the conference implies that the Baptist ministers are inclined to treat the bull fight as a joke, but I do not believe this. I have talked privately with quite a number of the ministers and they agree with me that the padded bull fights will be a disgrace to our city and state." Speaking of the resolution, he continue "The conference proposed an order requiring me to write a letter to The Florida Baptist telling that paper that the bu fight advertisements were a huge joke. I refused to do it because I did not believe that the information on which the conference acted was correct. I believed that there was no joke about it. I knew that they were 'padded,' and I see no moral difference between a glove contest between a pair of gladiators and a contest without gloves. A 'radded,' bull fight is as for her gloves, A 'padded' bull fight is as far below Atlanta's dignity as the Corbett-Fitz-simmons contest would be. Feeling that, I did not wish to be the instrument by which the Atlanta Baptist ministers' cor ference should become the appologists for bull fights, 'padded or otherwise.'

"If I am the only member of the conerence who oppose the 'padded' bull fights, rejoice in the fact that the people of Atlanta know I oppose them."

SOME FEAR OF DISRUPTION FELT.

What Was Done Yesterday Gives But Little Indication of the Outcome Other Railroad News

Oriental Hotel, Coney Island, N. Y., Aurust 13 .- (Special.)-The second adjourned neeting of the twenty-first annual convenion of the Southern Railway und Steamship Association was called to order at 11 o'clock this morning at the Oriental hotel, Manhattan Beach. Colonel J. W. Thomas, vice president of the association, presided as chairman. The principal lines, members of the association were represented and also the following non-association lines: Seaboard Air-Line, Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company, Norfolk and Western railroad, Cape Fear and Yadkin Vulley railway, Macon and Northern railroad and the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific

The agreement fixed at the Kenilworth inn meets with but little favor, the general sentiment being strongly in favor of strengthening that agreement in case it is

It is freely predicted that an association will be formed under a strong agreement and a standing board of arbitration to settle all differences.

. It is also predicted in regard to the commissionership that Mr. Stahlman will be unanimously re-elected and urged to retain the position for at least another year. Several gentlemen are visiting New York and are at the Oriental hotel at present, evidently waiting for lightning to strike them when the election for commissioner occurs.

After Stahlman a large number of members prefer H. S. Haines, and after Haines a number prefer Commissioner Finley, of the Passenger Association, and beyond that everything is speculative.

No one can hardly secure a una vote but Stahlman and if he will not accept it is probable that a dark horse will be elected. The convention appointed a committee composed of Henry Fink, receiver of the Norfolk and Western railroad; R. G. Erwin, vice president of the Plant system; S. M. Felton, receiver of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railway; Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railway, and H. Walters, president of the Atlantic Coast Line, to recommend an agreement to the convention at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

It is probable that as soon as this committee reports an agreement it will be promptly adopted and signed and an orranization immediately effected. While the information that such a committee has been appointed is not given out officially it is vouched for by several prominent members of the association who, in conversation with The Constitution's correspondent. declared that such a course had been

There are many here who fear that there will be disastrous expressions of dissatisfaction on the pant of the western lines of the association, mean such roads as the Louisville and Nashville, the Queen and Crescent and the Nashville. Chattanooga and St. Louis, and that these roads may pull out entirely and refuse to join under the new agreement. Particularly is the fear emphasized by those who seem to think that the special committee to frame the new articles of agreement will have basis of the association.

There are others who declare that the time is ripe anyhow for a change-for the western lines to form an association of their own and let the eastern knes hold to

These fears, however, seem to be groundless if the committee reports a strong lot we for holding the associat gether.

It is noticed that the Illinois Central, which used to be a member of the association; the Mobile and Ohio, which also was a member formerly, are not represented here. Those who are in favor of a western association say that there are plenty of lines that will go into it and form a larger association than the eastern roads could form. Chattanooga and Birmingham will be the western boundaries of the association if it is restricted to an eastern membership.

The commissionership, of course, is the important topic here, but nothing will be done in this regard by the association until the committee on agreement is heard from. After the committee reports the articles of agreement and they are adopted then it will be seen how many of the roads will join the association. After those that desire to become members have signed the articles the election of a commissioner will be held.

When approached for an expression of opinion as to who will be elected commissloner the members are as silent as the sphynx of Egypt. They really have no slate-no cut and dried programme.

Getting down to real facts, it seems unnatural to them to be thinking of anybody in the commissioner's place but the genial, suave and astute Stahlman, who seems to be a man cut out for a railroad commissioner, or to be an actor in heavy tragedy on the stage.

The meeting will probably be in session all the week.

T. B. A. THE PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

There Is a Sensational Rumor Afloat About Its Future Career. Will there be a revolution within the ranks of the members of the Southern States Passenger Association?

The question doesn't seem to be much out of place just at present.

People on the inside say that there is dangerous discord among certain members of the association and that some of them are talking about pulling up stakes and seeking freedom on the outside of the passenger association tent.

The trouble once more seems to lie with the western lines. There is a story to the effect that Stuart B. Knott, vice president of the Louisville and Nashville, doesn't feel so good over certain rulings that have recently been made and that he makes no bones about saying so.

Whether this be true or not is quite a different question, but it is gossip that comes from the best of sources and until a denial is heard it may be put down as rue.

Again it is said that a certain official

Again it is said that a certain official of a certain road feels a little sore over certain personal matters that recently came up on a certain occasion. This is certain.

Another story goes that the feeling is not good in other localities, and the rumor to the effect that a general "stir-up" may come to pass within the ranks of the association seems to be not without backbone.

When asked about these rumors yesterday a certain railroad man of prominence who ought to be one of those that always

A FULL REPORT

Of the Condition of the Tennessee Conl, Iron and Railway Company.

The stock of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company has advanced from $14 to $38 in the past six months. This rapid advance very naturally caused the jealousy of the bears in New York, and aided by The New York Herald, they made a preconcerted effort to bear the stock, but their attempt resulted in failure. This attack by the bears caused President Baxter to give a statement for publication of the extent and value of the property of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company. This company owns seventeen furnaces of modern make, the four at Ensley being the largest and best in the world. Eleven of the seventeen furnaces are now in blast, turning out $5,000 tons of iron a month. The two Oxmoor furnaces have been relined and will soon blow in, increasing the output to $6,000 tons per month. The company's coal output is from $25,000 to $15,000 tons per month. The company has in the treasury $447,000 of, De Bardeleben bonds, for which it has refused $23\frac{1}{2}$. The sale of these bonds would leave a surplus of treasury assets of over $1,000,000. The profits on iron production are from $2.50 to $8 per ton, and on coal $1,000 a day. Since 1887 the company has expended on its property $3,055,800. In addition to the coal and iron property the company owns $0 miles of railroad, 30 locomotives and 500 cars. The company is the largest producer of pig iron for the general market in the world, and is making iron at a lower cost than at any previous period. The iron men are expecting another advance in pig iron shortly. Iron can be advanced $2 a ton over Coal, Iron and Railway Company. shortly. Iron can be advanced $\mathbb{Z}$ a fon over the present price without danger of meeting the competition of imported iron. The price of pig iron has advanced $2.75 a ton since the 1st of January, and if another advance of $2$ is made, the $4.75$ about equals the import duty. While the advance in the price of pig has been very rapid, it has not equaled the advance in bar iron, which is now $8$ a ton more than it was three months ago. Coal has also advanced considerably. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company is now getting $7\mathcal{Z}$ cents a ton more than it did a month ago. The advance in prices in the United States will doubtless induce foreign manufacturers to import to some extent, but so far tin plate is the only article that can be imported with profit.

IN SLEEP UNBROKEN

The Dead Cow Will Remain in the Grave on Mr. Smith's Lot. THIRD CASE DISMISSED YESTERDAY

The Health Authorities Do Not Like the Disposition Made of the Case-Say

It Is a Bad Precedent. The good old cow of Mr. J. Henly Smith, ow interred on his premises in West End, will rest in peace and no rumbling sanitary wagon will rudely awaken her slum-This statement is based upon the action of Acting Recorder M. M. Welsh, of the second, when he erased with his pen the charges against Mr. Smlth. The case that was dismissed vesterday norning was the third case that had been made against Mr. Smith, and all of the charges that have been preferred, all of the costs that have been levied are all the result of the interment of his cow on his lot and in close proximity, as is claimed, to his neighbors' houses.

The disposition of the case which, in effect, establishes the position of Mr. Smith that a man has the right to bury a cow on his own lot, does not meet the approval of the officers or of the board of health. The officers say that it practically nullifies the law. The board of health say that it is menace to the health of the city. The two first cases against Mr. Smith still stand.

Unless the recorder who levied the costs ecommends that they be remitted, Mayor King will not interfere and the amounts thus levied will be collected from Mr.

Smith. The question of whether or not a man has the right to bury his own dead cow on his own lot has excited a world of interest and the precedent established by the disposition of the case will have an important bearing in the future.

Mr. Smith, who, by the way, is one of the best known citizens of Atlanta, con-tends that he acted in good faith in the matter and believed that he had a perfect right to inter the remains of his cow on the rear of his lot. He has stated that he was in ignorance of the law, and had no idea when he buried the cow that he was violating a city ordinance. But after the cow was buried he was impressed with the dea that it was too late to disinter the remains and feared that 'f this was done he would be fined for creating even a

The good old cow died after a fitful life on the 1st of August, and that afternoon her remains were laid away in the rear of Mr. Smith's lot, which, he claims, was large enough for the purpose. In a few days Mr. Smith was notified that he would have to appear at recorder's court and suswer the charge of creating a pulsance arswer the charge of creating a nuisance and violating section 649 of the city code. When the recorder's court was called Mr. Smith was present and stated that he did not intend to violate the city ordinance. Notwithstanding this statement by the defendant, he was fined $10 and costs. As soon as the fine was imposed Mr. Smith stated that he was not satisfied with the action of the court and that he would ap-peal and carry the case to the superior court before he would pay the fine. The fine was not remitted, however, but it was allowed to stand, and Mr. Smith was ordered by the court that he must abate the nuisance or be fined again. From later developments it appears that the advice of the court was not heeded and the cow was allowed to remain in the grave. This was not a satisfac-tory state of affairs either to the neigh-bors of Mr. Smith nor the sanitary department of the city.

Another case was made against Mr. Smith, as was threatened by the court if he did not abate the nuisance. On this charge Mr. Smith was fined $15 and costs. Yet again he was ordered to appear on the charge of failing to abate a nuisance. but at the suggestion of Mayor King the ease was dismissed in the recorder's court yesterday morning.

The failure on the part of Acting Recorder Welsh to convict and fine Mr. Smith has created a great deal of talk and the inspectors claim that they have been treated very badly. They insist that a prece dent has been established and that there is no use for them to attempt to execute the law, as their hands are tied and they have been made the subject of some very unkind remarks from certain quarters. They claim that it is useless for them to make cases against violators of the sant tary laws unless they have the support and ration of their superior officers.

Mayor King on the Situation. Mayor King, who is the only city official in whose power it is to remit fines, has been asked to remit the fines and costs that have been levied against Mr. Smith. It is very seldom that the mayor exercises this authority-only in extreme cases-and then it is usually at the suggestion of the recorder who imposes the fines. It is by no means certain that the fines against

Mr. Smith will be remitted. Ir. Smith will be remitted.
"I shall not remit the fines unless I am advised to do so by Acting Recorders Bell, Mayson or Welsh. I have not as yet been advised or instructed to do this, and the matter now stands. The fines have not been collected, but they are standing against Mr. Smith and they will be col-lected unless they are remitted. I can't say whether they will be remitted or not."

The Board of Health Doesn't Like It.

The board of health is not inclined to like the turn that the case has taken and they are not pleased that Mr. Smith's case was dismissed in the recorder's court yesterday

In speaking of the matter yesterday afteroon Dr. J. F. Alexander, president of the board of health, said:

"I think that it is a very dangerous pre-cedent to establish. The city must be kept clean and free from any impurities. It is dangerous to allow a dead cow to be buried on a man's premises in the city and I think that it is a very unwise decision that has been made in dismissing the case against Mr. Smith.

'We must be very careful in this matter of enforcing the laws and can't be too careful. The health of the city is to be uppermost at all times, and when a source from which harm may come has been discovered, it should be immediately removed. I do not think that any one should be excused for burying dead cattle on his property in the city."

The case has been the subject of much comment on the street, and it is the pre-vailing opinion that dead cattle should be hauled away from the city and under no circumstances be allowed to be buried in the city, especially on the lot of a citizen in a thickly settled part of the city.

Will Continue To Make Cases.

Captain Jennings, at whose instance the case against Mr. Smith was made, says that he does not consider that the dismissing of the case against Mr. Smith this morning has naturally set a precedent. "The law," said Captain Jennings, "is too plain to be misinterpreted. The section reads very plainly, and it is impossible for me to err under the law. I shall continue to have cases made against all who shall violate the code of the city. If it is a bad law, it should be changed. It is not discretionary with me as to whether the law is a good one or a bad one. I am instructed to enforce the law, and I intend to do this to the best of my ability. "Of course I will have a case made he is guilty, and I will see that the law is carried out. I was surprised when I was informed that the case against Mr. Smith ad been dismissed."

The Inspectors Are Indignant.

The city sanitary inspectors do not like the turn that the case has taken in the least, and they believe that they have been very badly treated. They say that they are greatly handicapped and that the decis-ion of their superior officers has injured the effectiveness of the sanitary department very much. As matters now stand it seems that no one would be in very great danger of being fined for the violation of the sanitary laws of the city. To say the least it is highly improper that the laws should be allowed to be violated. The health of any community depends upon the cleanliness of the city, and unless the sanitary laws are most strictly adhered to and enforced. much sickness may result.

Is the Law Defective! Judge Anderson, city attorney, gave it as his opinion that under the strict letter of the law as it stands at present Mr. Smith could not have been fined. It seems that no section of the city law can be construed to cover the case, unless the general ordinance regulating such matters is made to cover it. An effort will be made at the next meeting of the council to change the law so as to make it clear in its applica-tion to cases such as that of Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith Talks of the Case. "Further than the card I have published," said Mr. Smith, "I don't know that I have anything to say. I think that a great deal of unnecessary talk has been occasioned on account of the charges that have been made against me for the bury-ing of my cow on my lot. I did as any one else would have done had their cow died. I carried her back on the rear of my lot, which is a regular country-sized place, and digging a grave, buried her I believe that this course was the proper one for me to pursue, as I know that there was no odor that was possible to come from the place. If I had left the dead cow out in the sun and waited until I could have found a sanitary official, and then waited until he could go out and carry the carcass off, I am sure that my neighbors would have had good grounds for saying that I had created a nulsance. I believe that I did the very best thing that could have been done under the circumstances, and am sorry that my motives have been miscon strued.

"It has been said that an odor was arising from the place where the cow had been buried. This I deny. It was impossible to smell the least thing offensive. Am I sure of this? Of course I am, for after the charges were made I was careful to examine the place thoroughly, and even invited some of my neighbors to come over and see for themselves. I am very sorry that my neighbors have taken exception to the occurrence and assure you that I did only what I thought was right.
"I don't know anything about the case, but I was most assuredly going to appeal it to the superior court. I had employed Mr. Rosser to take the case, and had made all arrangements to fight the decision of the recorder's court."

Thin Suits

It hasn't been very many years since August days in retail stores were dull and dreamy. Proper enterprise was lacking; so trade activity lounged in a languid swoon. Not so now, though-at least not so here. Old-time inactivity has been relegated to where it belongs, and the store is each day bright with busy buyers-and a cooler, cheerfuller place 'twould be hard to find. Counters and shelves are filled with all sorts and kinds of summer things and stuffs, and it's weather that calls for them. The prices have melted in August's sizzling heat, and bargain buying is now at its very best. Come and judge for yourself. You're always welcome.

Invite you to visit their new store at 14 Whitehall street. Everything will be found attractive, including the prices.

The stock was selected by Mr. James M. Bloodworth, and his accurate knowledge of the trade in this section is a guarantee that every one can find there something to fit the foot and suit the pocketbook.
